Great Flying News
The Pope Protests
Texas Surprises Them
Whiskers the Fashion

—By Arthur Brisbane—

BIG FLYING NEWS, as the week begins.

The Hunter brothers continue their non-stop grind above Chicago, with the world's record long since broken. They propose to fly on, until the Fourth of July, then drop fire crackers.

Their feat is a tribute to their courage and endurance and to the quality of their machine.

Williams, Boyd and Connor plan new deeds, having flown from New York to Bermuda and back, non-stop, in 17 hours and one minute. And Dorothy Hester, 19-year-old girl, in Portland, Ore., does an "outside loop," after one year's flying. Three times, with two failures in five tries, the young Western girl did what few men have ever done and no woman ever attempted.

Henry Ford thinks flying makes prohibition absolutely necessary, here. Europe does not find it so, but demands moderation. As a rule, European flying companies forbid drinking by pilots for some hours before, and during flight.

Curiously enough, all European countries combined have had fewer aviation accidents due to drinking than this country, in proportion to miles flown.

Pope Pius complains of Protestant activity in Rome. The ...ing is described by the ... an unceasing work of ...orrosion and conquest."

Pope Pius mentions no Protestant sect, but is believed to refer to activities of the Methodist Church.

Another young American surprised the world yesterday in London. This one, Wilmer Allison, from San Antonio, Texas, beat Henri Cochet, the world tennis champion in three straight sets.

London could not have been more surprised if a Navajo Texan had lifted up the Nelson monument with one hand.

If you plan a trip to London, and want to look fashionable, let your beard grow, in cave man fashion. Young Oxford men and the "young set" generally are doing that.

Britain decides that whiskers are necessary to celebrity, a man cannot look convincingly eminent clean shaven.

They overlook at least three, Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon. They were clean shaven and quite convincing.

That style will not last. Whiskers are nests for germs, traps for crumbs, needed only by those that lack character. In the case of doctors they should be made illegal. Scarlet fever and other germs cling doggedly to whiskers.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley is dead in his 86th year. He rendered public service and proved the soundness of his theories on diet. He did not, however, equal the record of the famous Italian Cornaro. The latter specialized, long ago, in light eating. He lived to 104, in good health, and his wife, upon whom he urged his theories, lived past 100.

It will shock good prohibitionists to hear that he limited his diet to 12 ounces of solid food and 15 ounces of wine per day.

Twenty-five per cent more wine than food seems a good deal. There is no telling, of course, how much longer he might have lived had he taken 15 ounces of ice water.

Lacoste, second among tennis players, yesterday married Mademoiselle De Lachaume, best female golfer in France.

According to eugenists, their child should be earth's greatest tennis or golf star.

Very probably it will play neither game, and take to flying. Charles A. Dana used to tell of two highly intellectual stirpiculturists that married, determined to have a family of geniuses. They had one child, weak minded.

Nature keeps us about even.

Mussolini adds $26,000,000, a large sum in Italy, to his annual military expenses. The people patriotically accept more taxation when Mussolini tells them he is "meeting the increasing military expenditures of neighbors," referring to the heavy French border guard.

GARRETT HUNT PUSHED IN TREMONT ST.

Police Search Autos in South End, Roxbury; Franklin Camp Is Guarded

The "blind" search for Oliver B. Garrett, former liquor raider and now a fugitive from justice, reached a point today where police along Tremont st., in the South End and Roxbury were stopping automobiles and peering inside.

Both inbound and outbound cars were the objects of close scrutiny as a result of information that Garrett had been seen recently here in the district.

As the date for dismissal of the June venire drew closer—only two more days remaining—District Attorney William J. Foley had no assurance that Garrett would appear for trial before a jury drawn from that venire.

MRS. HATCH AT CAMP

On next Monday the July venire will be available but it is composed of only 40 jurors, not enough, in view of the expected challenges, to try Garrett. Mrs. Garrett and Mrs. Lillian V. Hatch on extortion charges.

If Garrett surrenders or is caught after Thursday, Dist. Atty Foley

Conferees "Break" Nation's Capital

Washington, July 1 (AP)—The District of Columbia government went "broke" today as Senate and House conferees failed to agree on appropriations for the nation's capital after a month's wrangle. The House group says $9,000,000 is enough, and Senate conferees say it should be $12,000,000.

Meanwhile, all authority for any funds for Washington died today, first of the new fiscal year.

HULTMAN TRAPS COP AS POISON PENMAN

Patrolman Brown Faces Trial for Writing Note Condemning a Brother Officer

Charged with writing poison pen letters about a brother officer, Patrolman Harry A. Brown of the Jamaica Plain division will go before a police trial board shortly, it was learned today.

It was also learned that Brown's identity was discovered through the use of a kind writing for the first time in the history of the department. A confession was obtained from him, it was declared.

Commissioner Eugene C. Hultmann admitted that while Supt. Michael F. Hogan, Deputy Superintendent James J. McGrath and William F. Kingston were also carrying on an investigation.

He said Brown was confronted with a letter and admitted he had written it, but contended it was done while he was a victim of a nervous breakdown.

Brown declared, according to the commissioner, that the breakdown was partially due to taunts by other police officers.

TO TRACE ALL LETTERS

The letters written by the patrolman were among 500 anonymous complaints received in the past few months since Commissioner Hultman assumed office.

As a result, he declared that hereafter all anonymous communications will be run down.

The letter in question was sent to Supt. Crowley, and by him turned over to the police commissioner.

In the letter the writer said he had been a resident of Jamaica Plain for 20 years, and that for the good of the district and the safety of the children Patrolman Francis Goodwin should be transferred immediately.

It was signed: "Fraternally, Bill."

EXPERT CALLED IN.

At a conference between Commissioner Hultman, Supt. Crowley and Deputy Supt. McDevitt it was decided to call in a handwriting expert.

From the context of the communication it was apparent that the writer was familiar with police routine and technical expressions, and the search narrowed down to members of the department.

In the course of time the hand writing was identified as that of Brown and when confronted with the facts he made a confession.

In April, 1928, Brown was admitted to the Haymarket Relief Hospital, having walked into the institution while off duty, claiming to be suffering from heat trouble.

HOOVER HIT BY LA FOLLETTE ON PENSIONS

Wisconsin Senator Says President Took "Plunge" on the Veterans' Bill

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Responsibility for embarking the nation on a policy of pensions for World War veterans was ascribed to President Hoover today by Senator La Follette, Republican Wisconsin.

Opposing the revised bill to aid those who served in the World War, La Follette told the Senate it was the chief responsibility of Congress who had "taken a plunge" on the question.

The address opened the debate which is expected to terminate in a vote before adjournment tonight.

SAYS HOOVER SHIFTED

The Wisconsin senator recited the history of the various veterans' relief bills, including the one just vetoed, and said Mr. Hoover was opposed to the pension system.

Yet, in the closing hours of the Congress he added, that very plan was brought in with administration approval. He said it was accompanied by an ultimatum from the

FOULS IN BOUTS IN N. Y. BARRED

New York, July 1 (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission today adopted a ruling eliminating fouls as ending future bouts in this State.

Hereafter boxers will be permitted to devise their own protection with the approval of the commission eliminating any right to claim foul.

Phil Tobias and Frankie Anselm, flyweights, who were tossed out of a ring at Ridgewood Grove, June 21, for fouling were ordered to return to the same ring and box again without compensation.

The commission was informed that the milk fund at which Max Schmeling won from Sharkey on a foul, netted a profit of $142,000.

Billie Dove Is Granted Divorce

Los Angeles, July 1 (INS)—Dark-eyed Billie Dove, in private life Lillian Bohny Willat, today obtained a divorce from Irvin Willat, director. Married October 27, 1923, due to his cruelties, she was compelled to leave him on September 15, 1929, she said.

They couldn't beat him in the half-mile and mile, but over the distance route Cupid caught and passed him.

So the Rev. Harold C. Cuthill, ordained Congregational minister and one of the fastest runners ever to pull on a spiked shoe, is planning to combine the ministry with salesmanship of securities.

The "Flying Parson" will wed Miss Beatrice G. Schmidt of New Canaan, Ct., late this summer and they will make their home in Boston, where Cuthill will become a securities salesman for a Boston brokerage house, he revealed today.

His bride-to-be is an outdoor girl, considerable of a hiker and with a fondness for all athletics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmidt, of New Canaan, and a buyer for her father's stationary business.

Cuthill lives in Myrtle st., West End, and is vocational director of Fisher Business College.

HUNTER BOYS ALOFT 478 HOURS, GO 'ON AIR'

First Time Radio Is Installed on Moving Plane; May Wing Another Week

Chicago, July 1—The Hunter... will fly on "so long as fuel... and metal hold out"... Hunter... [illegible] ...

City of Chicago, circled over... Harbor today for 477 hours, ... the world's refueling endurance flight record.

At 1:46 p. m. (C. S. T.) [illegible] p. m. E. D. T.), Jean and Kenneth Hunter dipped in recognition of another hour elapsed with 478 hours of uninterrupted flight. They were only 24 hours from the 500-hour mark, but [illegible] will be no stopping then if human brain and skill and the veteran ship hold out.

From the cabin of the City of Chicago as it whirred toward its 21st day on the wing, the Hunter brothers broadcast a cheery "hello" to the world today and chatted with the rest of the Hunter family, who watched and listened at the airport below.

It was the first time a radio broadcast had been attempted by dropping a microphone from a radio-equipped contact plane.

IN 176TH CONTACT.

The microphone was sent down on a 100-foot line shortly after the Big Ben, manned by Walter and Albert Hunter, had taken gasoline up to the endurance fliers in their 176th refueling contact.

The fliers broadcast their determination to "hang on as long as possible," and Keith with a goodbye, everybody," added:

"We'll be seeing you when we get back to that old world."

There was some difficulty on the 175th contact this morning with the refueling plane, the "Big Ben," and a hasty conference was held by the three members of the ground crew—Walter, Albert and Irene, their sister. They considered moving the flight to another airport in search of better weather, for a steady drizzle was falling at Sky Harbor and fog lowered the sky's ceiling, but they were told unofficially they could not do so.

IRENE SETTLES ISSUE

Casey Jones, official observer of the flight for the National Aeronautical Association, called Chairman Luke Christopher of the N. A. A. Chicago committee. Christopher said the rule that fliers must land on the field from which they took off could not be suspended.

"But suppose something happens and they have to land?" interposed Irene. "We won't take any chances on losing the record."

The City of Chicago was indescribable at times today in the foggy sky. Toward noon the rain stopped and the fog began to lift, putting an end for a while at least to the weather worries of the Hunters.

IN RADIO BROADCAST

A National Air Transport plane equipped to transmit short radio waves went up shortly before 11 a. m. to drop the microphone to the City of Chicago, from which John and Kenneth told the listening world how it feels to ride the air nearly three weeks.

The short waves were broadcast from the N. A. T. plane to Sky Harbor's receiving station and rebroadcast over the Columbia chain through WBBM.

A light but steady drizzle was falling as the two pairs of brothers said a second good morning over

CAMPBELL CHARGES G. O. P. RUM PLOT; URGES PROHIBITION REPEAL

PERMITS TO BE TRADED FOR VOTES, SAYS EX-DRY CHIEF

Washington, July 1 (INS)—Congressional investigation of charges by Maj. Maurice Campbell, retiring New York prohibition administrator, that the dry law is used by Republicans for political purposes, was demanded today by Representative Collier (Dem.) of New York. He said Campbell was ousted for raiding the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York.

New York, July 1 (US)—The charge that Republican politicians wanted him exiled from New York in order to obtain brewery, whiskey and alcohol permits for powerful friends was made last night by Maurice Campbell, ending three years as prohibition administrator for New York.

Coupled with this was Campbell's equally startling admission that prohibition can never hope to succeeded in the United States and that he is now for the absolute repeal of the 18th amendment.

The swan song of Campbell, who resigned rather than go to Boston, instead of a quiet scram to the glories of prohibition, turned out to be a blazing indictment of conditions as he says they exist—conditions full of political intrigue, indifference and vice.

He charged local politicians and officials in Washington have reached the conclusion that in order for the Republican party ticket to have a chance of success in New York this fall, certain brewery, whiskey and alcohol permits must be issued. Campbell charged:

"They know that if I remained in office those permits would not be issued."

Regarding his own views on the "noble experiment," Campbell said:

"Prohibition is not the logical solution for temperance in our form of government.

"I now publicly advocate the repeal of the 18th amendment before our nation is overturned in the fires of its consequences."

Campbell's threats will be taken over today by Andrew McCampbell, of Washington, who has indicated his dry government of the city will be conservative.

Campbell's Indictment Of Prohibition System

New York, July 1—The fiery statement attacking the prohibition enforcement situation, issued by Maj. Campbell when he retired as prohibition administrator yesterday, follows in full:

In view of recent developments, I have tendered my resignation as Prohibition Administrator for New York and the same has been accepted, so that my term of office will expire today.

MAURICE CAMPBELL

Naturally, there is a long story behind my retirement, which I cannot discuss at this time, but when I left Washington last Thursday afternoon after many conferences, it was tentatively understood, as far as I was informed, that I was to remain in New York as Supervisor of Permits in the Treasury Department, and the first intimation I had of the assignment to Boston came through the newspapers.

Notified Superiors

As long ago as three months, I apprised both Treasury and Department of Justice officials that I would not accept any post in the reorganization program wherein I would be charged with prohibition enforcement. Again, as recently as last week, I refused to consider a continuance of enforcement work in New York after today.

Notwithstanding this resolve I have endeavored to perform my duty in the interim and to act in conformity with my oath of office.

I have been extremely conservative in my administration with regard to permit matters. I have revoked or refused to renew, for cause which has been universally sustained in trials in federal courts, many permits with political backing and have thus trod on many political toes.

Consequently, there are certain brewery permits, whiskey permits and alcohol permits that local politicians and certain administration officials in Washington feel must be restored in order to secure necessary support for the Republican ticket in New York this Fall.

With me in charge of permits in New York, Treasury officials know these permits will not be issued.

Respect for Moss

William D. Moss, who will have charge of permits in this district, is a man for whom I have a high regard and one whom I personally brought here several years ago to assist me in prohibition enforcement.

Possibly, officials in Washington think he can be more easily swayed than myself. I do not know. But I now publicly admonish him to gather all his strength to withstand the onslaught, for I am sure he will have need for all the ability and courage he can command.

And now, after four years as one of the highest field officials in prohibition enforcement, with three years of that time as administrator in New York, I publicly declare that certain Treasury officials, who up to today have been charged with enforcement of the National Prohibition Act and who are still to remain in charge of kindred activities, have not been sincere in their efforts to enforce this law and they have plainly demonstrated this fact to me.

Means Nothing

Futher, in New York City and other areas in which sentiment of the people is predominantly wet, this transfer of enforcement activities to the Department of Justice will mean nothing so long as prohibition prosecutions are left to United States attorneys who possess political aspirations, the success of which must depend on their ability to win the approval of local politicians and their community for their prosecuting activities.

I have a high regard for the force I am leaving, in the main, for they are an exceptional lot of men, imbued with a fine sense of duty and devotion.

Marvels at Morale

Many times I have marvelled at the high degree of morale they display, notwithstanding the very apparent insincerity of other government officials high above them.

Finally, after my years of service in the Prohibition Bureau, after watching closely the results of prohibition from the inside and after a most thoughtful and serious consideration of the matter, I have reached the following conclusion:

PROHIBITION IS NOT THE LOGICAL SOLUTION FOR TEMPERANCE IN OUR FORM OF GOVERNMENT, AND I NOW PUBLICLY ADVOCATE THE REPEAL OF THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT BEFORE THE NATION IS CONSUMED IN THE FIRES OF ITS CONSEQUENCES.

Marshall Field Heir Weds Girl Reporter

Chicago, July 1 (AP)—Joseph Field, 19-year-old son of the socially prominent Stanley Field, was married in Philadelphia May 31 to Frances Batty, once a newspaper reporter in Kansas City and of Louis and daughter of a Waverly, Ill., grocer and milkman.

Mr. and Mrs. Field, who announced the marriage yesterday, said they did not know of the marriage until their son returned last Friday to their country estate with his wife.

Joseph Field is a grand nephew of the late Marshall Field, Chicago merchant prince.

President that "you must accept the pensions plan or be in a situation where you cannot bring relief to the veterans."

The pension plan was not requested by any veterans' organization of a substantial character, La Follette said.

DENOUNCES RATES

"The pension plan is the Hoover plan of relief," he asserted. "I make no criticism of the President for his veto, but when he forcesCongress to adopt another plan then I say the judgment as to what the rates should be rests squarely on the shoulders of Congress."

He denounced the 312 to 340 range of rates in the pending bill as inadequate.

La Follette asserted "this talk of a deficit in the treasury is just so much poppycock." He said Secretary Mellon had a record of "almost 100 per cent errors" in estimating treasury deficits.

"Time after time, though Mr. Mellon has been successful in reducing taxes on great wealth," La Follette continued, "he is the leader in the movement to destroy the inheritance tax."

Notice was given by Senator Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, that he would seek to substitute the revised veterans relief measure for the new pension bill.

The district attorney said private detectives had Franklin camps under observation without sighting the former raider but saw Mrs Hatch yesterday at the Lincoln st. Franklin, camp hired by Garrett two weeks before he disappeared.

The two women defendants will not be surrendered by their surety, Leopold Manfredonia. Bonds which he posted for them have been secured against the possibility of their default, it is understood.

During the past few days a man representing himself as a Department of Justice agent has been seeking Garrett at a half-dozen places he was wont to frequent in the downtown district. He was especially interested in knowing whether Garrett had been seen since his default.

HOOVER IN RUSH TO JAM PACT BY SENATE

But Decides That He Will Not Ask for July 4 Session

London, July 1 (AP)—Earl Beatty, admiral of the fleet, attacked the London naval treaty vigorously in the House of Lords today. He declared that England was the only nation under the treaty that made any disarmament or reduction of its sea strength.

Washington, July 1—President Hoover's "indecent haste," as Senator Moses of New Hampshire described the attempt to jam the London naval treaty through the Senate, today became a seemingly panicky rush.

So anxious is the administration to force hasty action on the pact that Republican leaders have agreed with the President for calling the special session of the Senate without giving weary senators much of a breathing spell.

NO JULY FOURTH SESSION

But word that the President will not ask the Senate to meet on the Fourth of July received a cordial welcome today from many members.

It was intimated at the White House that Mr. Hoover would have the special session for consideration of the treaty convene on Monday if Congress adjourns tomorrow or Thursday. Previously, the President had said the special session would be convened on the day following the adjournment of the regular session.

The filing of the minority report from the foreign relations committee by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, together with the supplemental memorandum by Senator Moses, caused a great stir in the Senate and apparently in the State Department.

STIMSON BUSY

Secretary Stimson hastened to the Capitol to confer with Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania one of the American delegates to the London conferences and chief defender of the treaty.

Senator Reed, however, was engaged on the Senate floor with the veterans' bill. Stimson went back to the State Department without completing his errand.

ITALY DOUBLES DUTY ON CARS FROM U. S.

Increases Range From 100 to 600 Per Cent as Protest Against New Tariff

Rome, July 1 (INS)—The first definite retaliatory steps by a European nation against the new United States tariff were taken by the Italian government today in a decree increasing the duties on American automobiles imported into this country.

The increases range from 100 to 600 per cent.

American automobiles weighing up to 1350 pounds will be charged $57 instead of $23 for every hundred kilos (220 pounds).

Cars weighing up to 2666 pounds will be charged $26 instead of $13 for every hundred kilos.

Cars weighing more than 2666 pounds will be subject to duty of $87 for every hundred kilos instead of $13 as in the old schedule.

All these charges will be in addition to the usual 33 per cent ad valorem tax.

Belgium to Send Note of Protest on Tariff

Brussels, Belgium, July 1 (INS)—The Belgian government today was preparing a note to the United States protesting against the tariff under the new protection bill passed through the U. S. Senate.

The note, which probably will be forwarded to Washington Wednesday, indicates that Belgium stands to lose 500,000,000 francs annually because of imposed tariffs.

French Trade Body Acts on U. S. Tariff

Paris, July 1 (AP)—The national committee on foreign trade today decided to call the attention of the government to the anxiety caused in commercial circles by the new American tariff increases on French products.

The decision was based on the report of a special committee on North American trade.

Bertha was dragged from the stream by older sisters but died because they did not understand methods of resuscitation. The mother stood by while the bodies were recovered.

match is needed in that situation. It is fortunate that no League of Nations, or World Court, back-door league, ties us up with those dangerous conditions. We have war enough in our own bootleg-crime league.

The Russian newspaper, Pravda, urges Communists in America to "intensify their activities among Negroes and workers of foreign nationality." The advice is not sound. Negroes and workers, foreign born, are usually willing to work for a living.

Lack of employment is the Communists' best friend, of course. But in ordinary times, propaganda would be most effective among those that think the world owes them a living, with little or no work.

Andrew McCampbell, new and energetic prohibition administrator for New York, proposes to curb liquor at its source, attacking night clubs and speakeasies.

To dry up the latter, according to New York policemen that know, would be as hard as mopping up the Atlantic.

There are about 40,000 "regular" speakeasies in New York, and as many irregular drink salesrooms, in private flats, small stores and elsewhere.

Mr. McCampbell need not feel disgraced if he fails to close all those places, for when one speakeasy is shut, its management immediately opens elsewhere, often next door.

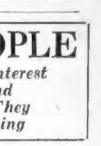
Bankhead's Daughter to Marry Aviator

Reno, July 1 (AP)—Mrs. Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Bult, daughter of Congressman W. B. Bankhead of Alabama, was granted an annulment of her marriage to Wilfred Lawson Bult here yesterday. She announced she would be married tonight to Howard Lee, aviator, of Dallas, Tex.



Mrs. Bult

The annulment was not contested by Bult, a former University of Nevada student.

Both had been divorced prior to their marriage here some months ago.

Lucy Cotton Thomas Battles for Estate

Palm Beach, Fla., July 1 (AP)—Seeking one-third of the entire estate of her former husband, the late Edward Russell Thomas, wealthy Palm Beach and New York resident, Lucy Cotton Thomas, actress, filed a complaint here yesterday.

Lucy Cotton Thomas

Thomas, who died in 1929, left most of his property in trust for his widow until her remarriage or death. In case of her remarriage, Mrs. Thomas is to receive one-third of the trust. In 1927 Mrs. Thomas married Lytton Gray Ament, whom she recently divorced in Nevada.

Previously, the bill states, she had elected to take a dower in lieu of the provision made for her in the will, so she claims she is entitled to her own right to one-third.

Women Rejoice Over Nationalization Bill

Washington, July 1 (AP)—An organized femininity, estimated as 500,000 strong, today fired off figurative cannon crackers of jubilation over the bill, in increased independence of women.

They celebrated the long-hoped-for passage of the Cable bill, relieving American born women married to aliens from the necessity of involved naturalization proceedings to regain their citizenship.

Mrs Owen

American born Ruth Bryan Owen, expatriated by her marriage to a British army officer, naturalized like any other alien her home land, defender of her seat in Congress on a citizenship basis, was bannerbearer and substance of the phrase, the "parity of citizenship" campaign.

She sat with the House committee considering the Cable bill. Her naturalization experience was cited as "not just treatment" in the report of March 31, recommending its passage.

Girl Flyer Sells Air Travel Idea

New York, July 1—Selling planes, aerial photography, and other odd lines in which their knowledge of flying will serve them, has been taken up by many women aviators. But it remained for Mildred Johnson of Buffalo, the first woman to start her own service bureau for air travelers.

Mildred Johnson

The purpose of Miss Johnson's bureau is not only of the making necessary arrangements for an air tour, but to sell the whole idea of air travel to those who might find it unsafe, but who don't as yet take flying as a mat-

WILLIAMS PREDICTS REGULAR SEAPLANE SERVICE TO BERMUDA

PILOT LAUDS PASSENGER PROPOSAL

Amphibians, Carrying 12 to 20 Passengers, Can Make Trip in 6 or 7 Hours, He Says

Regular seaplane service to Bermuda, in craft carrying 12 to 20 passengers each, was forecast last night by Roger Q. Williams, who on Sunday piloted the monoplane Columbia on the 1360-mile round-trip flight from New York to Bermuda. He predicted a fleet of amphibians will soon be covering the 780-mile flight in from six to seven hours.

New York, July 1—Our flight to Bermuda was the first ever made in the history of aviation by absolutely scientific navigation. Our success was due to the elaborate preparation which began last November. Entering into our good fortune also was the careful selection of crew, modern instruments and flying equipment.

I am a believer in old saips, tried and true. I have never yet made an important flight in a new ship.

The public will want to know the practical results of this pioneering air voyage to Bermuda. I can tell you in a nut shell. It means the establishment in the not distant future by a great steamship company of a new seaplane line to Bermuda with craft which will carry from 12 to 20 passengers in safety and comfort.

The trip will be made in from six to seven hours on the average so that one may leave New York on a reasonable hour in the morning and arrive in Hamilton for cocktails and dinner.

NEW INSTRUMENT

I want to mention the new Sperry artificial horizon instrument which was used for the first time in the expedition.

This instrument was not used by the navigator but by the pilot and we employed it with the greatest success. There are only eight of these artificial horizon instruments in the world and it was our good fortune to have one of them. It makes blind flying an exact science. It is unquestionably the most marvelous instrument of its kind in the world as an aid to practical navigation.

It should be understood that the round trip from New York to Hamilton and return was almost the same distance as though we had flown from St. John's, Newfoundland, to England.

Yet we had enough gasoline, 15 gallons left on our return to Long Island, so that we might have continued on to Chicago.

ALONGSIDE SHIP

One of the most interesting phases of our trip was the fact that we were able to calculate exactly the time when we should overtake the steamship Bermudian and St. George. Because of our very careful calculation we flew over the steamship St. George bound for New York exactly in her course at precisely 9:35 a. m.

We flew alongside the ship level with her deck at not more than 50 feet above the water and our wings were only a few feet from the rails. The passengers and crew lined the deck and cheered and gesticulated frantically while the ship's whistle blew excitedly. It was a great thrill for them and us too.

Returning from Bermuda we overtook the Bermudian exactly at 5:10 p. m., according to our previous calculations; she was bound for Hamilton and of course does not dock until today. It was another triumph for science by air over the sea. At 8:05 p. m. we overtook the St. George once more and there was another wild demonstration on her decks. We had miscalculated by two minutes. It makes flying to Bermuda seem like commuting.

There is no doubt this route will soon be commercially flown, thanks to the careful navigating data and scientific observation we were able to make. We obtained a wealth of weather data and flying facts for future use which will be indispensable in successful operation over the 780-mile route.

'We'll Stay Up Till Plane Falls to Bits'

SITTING ON THE CATWALK, Kenneth Hunter is shown on the airplane City of Chicago as the great endurance flight goes merrily on. Wilson Herrin, manager of the City of Chicago, keeps official record besides supervising the refueling and food supply for Kenneth and John Hunter, pilots of the plane, who plan to stay aloft as long as their airship holds together, they said today. ARMORED CASH CAR UPSET IN CRASH, ABLAZE

Driver, Injured, Rescues Two Locked Inside; Boys in Stolen Auto Seized

Brockton, July 1—Locked in an armored money car, that caught fire after it was overturned in collision with a stolen sedan, two New Bedford men received a severe shaking up and narrowly escaped a worse fate today.

The crash occurred on Belmont st., West of Manley st., where two boys backed the sedan into the truck, while trying to turn around, according to police.

Earl Trumbling of Hillman st, and Manfred Bourne of Pierce st. were locked in the truck, guarding several thousand dollars in transit to New Bedford.

DRIVER INJURED

After the crash they were released with difficulty by the driver John J. King of George st., New Bedford, who was more seriously injured than they were and had to be taken to a hospital for treatment for hip and leg injuries after he had finished his rescue work.

Trumbling and Bourne refused to go to the hospital, insisting on staying on the scene to guard the money which was scattered about the interior of the compartment.

Fire apparatus was called by witnesses of the accident and the flames were quickly put out. Police rushed to the scene on a report that a holdup had taken place.

BOYS ARRESTED

The boys, according to the police, were driving the sedan, and fled, but were caught by William S. Wilson, a policeman who lives near the scene of the accident.

They gave their names as Ellin Ellis, 16, of Rochelle st., and Harold Seavey, 17, of Bryant ave. They are charged with taking the auto of Max Shaer of Erie ave. from the vicinity of the Diamond shoe factory.

Off for Graves of Loved Ones in France

ROBERT O'BRIEN — MRS. CATHARINE GAVAIN — ROBERT GAVAIN

Cheers gave way to tears at the South Station today when 41 Gold Star Mothers left Boston for New York from where they will sail on a pilgrimage to the graves of loved ones who gave their all for the country during the World War. FLIERS NEAR 500 HOURS the airport. Two hours earlier Walter and Albert Hunter had taken the Big Ben up to replenish the gasoline and oil supplies after its 20th night in the air.

MAY FLY TILL TUESDAY.

Already the Hunter boys had passed the old record for endurance flight by more than 57 hours and the talk of a landing atill was vague. Their immediate goal is the 500-hour mark, to be reached at 11:40 a. m. Wednesday.

Saturday may see a landing if the brothers can reach an agreement, but the boys down below said today the chinpins might stay aloft till Monday or Tuesday.

Walter Hunter said they might send for the ancient "standard" plane down on the farm at Sparta, their first ship, as an additional exhibit for the thousands who visit the airport every day to watch the making of aviation history.

Throughout the night the steady drone of the motors attested that all was well with the ship. Observers at the airport, however, were unable to see the plane, its running lights having burned out some time ago.

HOME FOLKS THERE.

Sparta, Ill., whose back pastures were used by the Hunter brothers for their airplane training flights, sent a committee of encouragement to Sky Harbor airport today.

Headed by Mayor W. W. Lynn, the moral support group included the secretary of the chamber of commerce, Will Keigley; Nathan R. Leasley, a banker, and Leo Campbell, head of the Sparta Rotary Club.

"We're here until the plane comes to earth," Mayor Lynn said.

The mayor said a subscription had been taken in Sparta yesterday and that $300 was pledged toward a municipal airport, to be named after the Hunter brothers.

MOTHERS OF HEROES LEAVE

Tearfully, and to the farewell of scores of relatives, including sons and daughters and grandchildren, of 41 Gold Star mothers left Boston for New York today, en route for France.

Their departure was on the 9:15 a. m. train and was made to the tunes of wartime airs, played by Cecil Fogg Post Band of the American Legion from Hyde Park.

The Gold Star mothers will sail tomorrow from New York for France to visit the graves of their sons and husbands who died overseas.

200 Escape as Train Hits Truckload of Explosives

Missoula, Mont., July 1 (AP)—A carnival train rushing down on Bear Mouth Crossing today faced a truck of high explosives in its path.

Carl Siria had driven it onto the track but was unable to drive it off again. The engine sheared the truck in halves. Cases of explosives, all intact, rained down where many a road agent laid in ambush years ago.

As 200 passengers congratulated themselves, Siria crawled from the debris with a slight scratch on his head.

U. S. SURPLUS IS $184,000,000

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Secretary Mellon announced today that the government had concluded the 1930 fiscal year with a surplus of $184,000,000.

The treasury head noted, however, that included in the amount was $76,000,000 paid by foreign governments as their June installments on war debts, which he said was abnormal.

The total ordinarily receipts of the government, the secretary said, amounted to $4,178,000,000 as compared with $4,053,000,000 in 1929.

The aggregate of customs and internal revenue receipts was $3,638,000,000 which was $6,000,000 greater than the receipts from these sources in 1929 and $11,000,000 below the treasury aggregate estimate after allowance for the one per cent tax reduction.

Write Hoover Biography

PRESIDENT HOOVER IS SAID to have been much pleased with the biography of him written by these two New Milford, Ct., boys, and entitled, "Our President, Herbert Hoover." William is 11 and wrote the book, and Chester, 10, helped him print it. The edition of 60 copies was snapped up like hotcakes. (Associated Press photo.)

HEARST PLANE FIRM FORMED

Sacramento, Cal., July 1—Hearst Aircrafts, Ltd., aeronautical manufacturing and transportation company, headed by George R. Hearst of San Francisco, has filed articles of incorporation here.

The corporation announced plans to engage in commercial aircraft operations as well as the manufacture of planes and flying equipment and the rebuilding of aircraft. Establishment of storage buildings, hangars and other facilities were indicated in the program.

Proposed company activities were also listed as embracing aerial transportation of passengers and property, stunt flying and the use of aircraft in advertising work. A State charter was issued with these and other general corporate powers.

The Hearst company begins business with capital stock of $50,000, divided into 500 shares of $100 each.

In addition to George R. Hearst, directors include Blanche W. Hearst and John Guthrie Heywood of San Francisco, where headquarters of the corporation will be maintained.

To Wed Senator

MRS. ALICE T. SHEETS of Salt Lake City, widow of a Mormon bishop, is to be the bride of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah. (Associated Press photo.)

HONEYMOON IN HONOLULU

Salt Lake City, July 1—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, who announced yesterday that he and Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets of Salt Lake City would be married soon, will be a candidate for re-election, it was announced today.

The wedding will be in the Latter Day Saints' Temple here. Senator Smoot arrived Saturday from Washington.

Mrs. Sheets has been a widow since 1918. Her husband, Edwin S. Sheets, a Mormon bishop, died in the influenza epidemic of that year.

Senator Smoot's first wife died more than a year ago.

The date for the wedding has not been set, but Senator Smoot and his bride will leave about July 15 for a honeymoon in Honolulu.

Bolivian Officials Held Prisoners

Universal Service Special Cable

Buenos Aires, July 1—Dr. Hernando Siles, former president of Bolivia, and Gen. Hans Kundt, German chief of staff of the Bolivian army, remained virtual prisoners in foreign legation buildings today while armed citizens patrolled the streets of La Paz to prevent their escape.

The deposed chief executive remained throughout yesterday in the Brazilian embassy, protected by the diplomatic immunity, while Gen. Kundt kept to the German legation.

Killed as Iron in Freight Car Slips

Albany, July 1 (AP)—Harold Durant, 23, of 253 Nottingham st., Springfield, Mass., was killed at Chatham today by the sliding of a load of scrap iron in a freight car in which he was riding.

Two companions, Grant Mills and Michael Grgasfield, both of Springfield, were taken to a hospital. The falling iron crushed their feet.

Bog Fire Burns Hours

Malden firemen worked for six hours yesterday before extinguishing a fire in a peat bog beside the Friend Brothers' canning factory in Eastern ave.

Bay State Woman Dies on Sleeper

New Haven, July 1 (INS)—Mrs. Mary Seymour of Mt. Hermon, Mass., died on a Washington-bound sleeper of the New Haven road here today. Dr. Marvin M. Scarbrough, medical examiner, announced death due to heart disease.

Watches Son Plunge 40 Feet to His Death

Amherst, July 1—In the presence of his father, Roland Johnson, 30, of Minneapolis, Minn., was killed today when a staging on which he was working collapsed and hurled him 40 feet to the ground. Johnson, with his father, Alex, was employed by a Boston construction company.

Negro Is Held for Attacking Three

Warrenton, Va., July 1 (AP)—Allie Cobbs, 65, is near death and his two daughters, Estelle and Isabelle, are in a hospital, all three suffering from bullet wounds and burns reported to have resulted from an attack on them by Elwood Payne, negro. Payne was arrested and denied the charges. He is held in jail.

LANDS PLANE MINUS WHEEL

While Boston Airport pilots and attaches looked on fearfully, Lieut. Frank C. Crowley, former air mail flier, today brought to a successful landing an Army Consolidated plane with one wheel missing.

Discovering that before he started to come in that his left wheel was missing, Lieut. Crowley opened the motor, circled the field, warned Sergt. Win Young riding with him and then went down.

He landed slowly on the right wheel with the right wing low, and when the left axle hit the ground the ship ground looped slowly about a half turn and was brought to a stop.

Lieut Crowley's long training caused him to look at the wheels before landing.

Loses Race With Death to Cape Cod

West Harwich, July 1 (INS)—A transcontinental race by airplane with death today had proved futile for Richard H. Robinson of San Francisco, Cal., whose father, Cyrus Robinson of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a mining engineer and personal friend of President Hoover, died at his summer home here before his son arrived. Robinson died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

GUTHRIE O.K. ON CENSUS NOW

Bridgeport, July 1 (INS)—The dispute between George F. Hill, census supervisor of this district, and Rev. Dr. William N. Guthrie, pastor of St. Mark's in the Bouwerie, New York, Summer resident at Stamford, was ended today when Dr. Guthrie's census blank came into Hill's office and was pronounced legible.

"I made out the writing, and the report will be forwarded to Washington, thus ending his case," said Mr. Hill.

"I wish Mr. Guthrie could have been in my office today when Mrs. Emma Hayward entered. She is 91 years old, and is the mother of 17 children. She was born in Great Britain and entered this country in 1865. A census enumerator failed to call at her home, and she came down here, despite the intense heat, believing it her duty as a citizen."

Seek Church Theft Clue

Police today were searching fingerprint files at headquarters trying to match fingerprints left by thieves who broke into the Park Street Church, early yesterday, and stole $2 in pennies after rifling four desks. An attempt was also made to pry the top off a flue safe.

Brockton Pole Sitter Fears Fourth Fireworks

Entering his 20th day of sustained flight, Ralph D'Agostino, Brockton's flagpole sitter, believes he has unearthed a dark plot to thwart his attempt at "Shipwreck" Kelly's 23-day record.

With the "Glorious Fourth" and success just around the corner, Ralph has noticed an increase of activity among the younger generation in the vicinity of Summer st.

It appears that suspicious looking bundles which might contain firecrackers, Roman candles and such essentials have been seen under convoy of several enterprising youths.

Brother Charles, business manager of the D'Agostino project, has it on good authority that a concerted aerial attack is contemplated for the "Night Before." He has made cautious inquiries as to whether police protection will be available.

This was the sole development today. The city continues to block up the road leading past the D'Agostino residence. Hence spectators are few and contributions fewer.

DEATH OF CHILD IS MYSTERY

Booneville, Miss., July 1 (AP)—Beatrice, 13-year-old daughter of the Rev. R. C. Nanney, Kossuth, Miss., minister, died in a hospital here last night of a mysterious illness, an investigation of which is alleged to have caused her stepmother to attempt suicide.

Mrs. Nanney is suffering from knife wounds.

Hospital attendants said the child's illness had been diagnosed as apparently due to poisoning and that an autopsy would be held.

Find Man's Body Stuffed in Valise

Lima, Peru, July 1 (AP)—Police today were puzzled by what they called a valise murder. Breaking open the door of a room in a boarding house here they found two small valises containing the body of a man packed in small bits.

Plans Solo Flight Across Atlantic

St. Johns, N. F., July 1 (INS)—Maj. C. S. Wynne Eaton, noted for his flight research work in India and Africa, made ready today for an attempted solo flight to London in a light De Haviland "Puss" Moth airplane. He plans to take off from Harbor Grace July 7.

Stalin Crushes Soviet Opposition

Moscow, July 1 (AP)—All regular forces within the Communist party today were active in crushing out the last vestige of right wing opposition.

Joseph Stalin and his central committee again have emerged triumphant and with enormously enhanced political prestige. The fate of Stalin's political foes today amounted to political annihilation.

HOLD WOMAN AS KEY TO LINGLE SLAYING

Los Angeles, July 1 (AP)—A woman giving the name of Mrs. Frank Bowman of Chicago, tentatively identified by police as Mrs. Frankie Foster, whose husband has been prominently mentioned in connection with the slaying of Alfred Lingle, Chicago newspaper man, was held today.

The woman was arrested yesterday on request of Chicago authorities and is held incommunicado in a hotel. She was arrested in an apartment in an exclusive residential section.

Chicago, July 1 (AP)—One of the men particularly sought in the Lingle murder case walked unsuspecting and unexpected into the arms of the law last night.

He is Grover Dullard. Police claim he is the man who trailed Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, on the day Lingle was slain, and that he "put the finger" on Lingle—pointed him out to the man who actually fired the murder bullet.

Flier Grabs Wing of Plane When Tossed Half-Mile in Air

La Crosse, Ind., July 1 (INS)—Although thrown from an army bombing plane a half-mile above this city, Lieut. John Ryan, army flier, was alive today because he saved himself by seizing the lower wing as he fell.

His fingers grasped the trailing edge of a wing as he fell and Lieut. Ryan clung on although his right foot swung into the ship's propeller. The plane proceeded on to Langley Field, Va., after the lieutenant was given emergency treatment.

DEFENSE RESTS IN TRUDEAU MURDER

Worcester, July 1—In a surprise move, the defense rested today in the trial of Leon Trudeau of Webster for the murder of his wife, Cecelia, whose body was found on a road outside of Webster on February 22.

After only two hours of taking evidence in the eighth day of the trial, Defence Counsel Frederick W. Cronin announced that his case was completed without the defendant taking the stand.

He said he would devote two hours to arguing, to be followed by Dist. Atty. Edward G. Norman.

Judge Nelson P. Brown, presiding in the Superior Criminal Court trial, will charge the jury in the morning and Trudeau will probably know his fate before the Fourth of July.

Only four witnesses were heard at the morning session, the first being Herbert S. Buss, guard at the Summer st. jail.

His testimony cast doubt on that of Ernest A. Holland, private investigator who was planted in a cell next to that of Trudeau. He had previously testified Trudeau told him during exercise walks around the jail yard that he had lied to police and that his wife had no revolver.

Buss said a prisoner held without bail on a murder charge would not be permitted to walk about the yard with another prisoner.

Joseph Fiola of Webster said he was going fishing the morning the body of Mrs. Trudeau was discovered, and saw it. He testified it was prone on the face. Defence has claimed the woman was strangled as a result of falling on her face when she leaped from her husband's automobile.

Sedgwick Named Library Trustee

Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, was appointed a member of the Boston Public Library board of trustees today by Mayor Curley. He succeeds the late Guy W. Currier.

Sedgwick received the degree of A. B. from Harvard in 1894, Litt. D. from Tufts in 1920 and Litt. D. from Dartmouth, 1923. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, American Institute of Arts and Letters and Massachusetts Historical Society Home.

Dependable Service

It is a comforting thing, as the warmest days of summer approach, to know that you will have unlimited ice service and that even in the most torrid weather, when the greatest strain is put on delivery service, your block of sparkling frigidity will be placed in your refrigerator at the regular hour each day.

We do not claim that the smart, clean uniforms of our delivery men, or their courteous manners, add anything to the value of Boston ice, but customers tell us that it is pleasant to have such men serve them. And we do know that our men take the keenest pride in their work and in their company. Such men can be depended upon.

AIRPORT APRON DISPELS DUST AND MUD

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

After weeks of steady labor the tarmac or apron in front of the commercial and military hangars at Boston airport is nearing completion. The apron consists of crushed rock covered with a layer of tar and finely crushed stone spread on top.

Extending 75 feet out from the fences, the apron also includes the space between the fronts of the hangars and the fence and between the hangars. An immediate improvement of the dust nuisance has been noted since the apron began to take definite form, and Airport Super Albert L. Edson has received many favorable comments upon the construction.

PAVED PARKING SPACE

In back of the hangars, on the south side of the road, 50 feet of the parking area has already been paved with similar substance, and now that automobiles may be safely parked without danger of sinking out of sight in wet clay the remainder of the space over to the southern bulkhead is being prepared for its covering.

Loam has been spread in the areas in front and the sides of the end hangars, along with the areas around the Administration Building, and shortly flowers and ivy vines will be planted, thus giving the airport a pleasant aspect to visitors entering the field.

HERE'S A NOVEL JOB

Making money with an airport upon which no activities in the flying line are being carried on is the unique experience of Harland Banks, head of the National Air Pageant Association.

Banks owns an airport out in Amsterdam, New York, and recently he paid the field a visit. To his amazement he discovered that the runways were covered with ripe luscious strawberries. Off the runways was a crop of hay that would do justice to any farmer's hay field.

Right away the berries and hay were sold, and future crops of both items assure the astute Mr. Banks of an income for the rest of the summer. Just a tip to the boys around who can use some parts of their airports for better things than flying.

Ticket Agent Slain, Money Bag Unopened

Elizabeth, N. J., July 1 (AP)—J. F. Northrup, 50, ticket agent at the Elmora station of the Central railroad of New Jersey, was slain today as he stepped from the porch of his home.

He was carrying a money bag containing an undetermined sum. It was found nearby containing a considerable amount of change, and apparently had not been opened. Police believed, however, that robbery was the motive for the killing.

Daily Antique No. 134

WHAT A BIT of furniture for a corner, under a window or to be placed alongside of a comfortable chair. It is a hand-carved, marble top bit. The table was for years the property of Jacob Bacon, but is now owned by Mrs. Alice Huse Chick of 213 Columbia rd., Dorchester. This table is almost 200 years old.

Safety First Policy Forces Shamrock Out

Gourock, Scotland, July 1 (AP)—The Shamrock V, which started in a 42-mile race on the Clyde today, gave up after about a half-hour's sailing. The White Heather followed suit when her struts gave way.

The Shamrock V stopped from a "safety first" policy. The wind was fresh in the channel and Capt. Heard decided to take no risks of damage to Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup.

Revere Lifeguards to Be Put in Towers

Lifeguards at Revere Beach will be stationed in towers by a decision of Capt. John J. Murphy of the metropolitan police. Capt. SOUND ADVICE!

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*"I have come to the conclusion," writes Sir Henry Thompson, M.D., F.R.S., "that more than half the disease that embitters human life is due to avoidable errors in diet." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

A demonstration, assertedly in the interest of freedom for India, has been made at the British consulate in New York by a group, mostly of young persons, who describe themselves as Communists.

As the official representative in the United States of the Indian National Congress, I wish you to believe that no accredited Indian representative instigated, urged, gave countenance to or in any manner participated in this demonstration.

The people of India desire the sympathetic consideration of the people of America. They believe they are emulating the spirit of liberty which possessed your people in the Colonial era. It is a fact that Gandhi's campaign of civil disobedience was inspired in him by the treatise on civil disobedience written by your American philosopher, Thoreau, and that his manifestations against British rule have been largely patterned after the policies and the practices of the American Revolution.

In any event, those who are desirous that India shall attain her goal of freedom and become an independent and friendly power among the nations of the world do not seen to enlist the sympathetic consideration of the American people by disturbing their serenity in any manner, least of all by creating "riots," which serve the purpose of obtaining publicity for their authors.

The genuine friends of India rely upon the facts in this crisis in India to promote the kindly interest of Americans.

SAILENDRA N. GHOSE,
President India National Congress of America.

Thanks American for Editorial on Pay Question

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir:

The employes of the registry of motor vehicles wish to thank you for your kind and sympathetic editorial embodying such a fine sense of justice and fair play. It was very encouraging and we are grateful.

Our petition invited a certain amount of criticism which was to be expected. Despite the criticism which could be easily met and dispensed with, we still stand by our statement of facts and more earnestly than ever petition for a redress.

That our maximum is $105 per month and that, because of extra car fare, extra bus fare and at times, taxi fare, retirement reductions and meal prices over which we have no choice, this $105 is reduced to nearly $85, are mere statements of facts.

Were we accepting the invitation to argue, we could easily show how far from the point the expressed criticism was, how specious the apparent argument was. We could show that the "tax payer" has never objected to just emoluments, but to the many needless raises of already high paid individuals of thousands of dollars at a time.

Were we, as we said, inclined to argument we could go on and confound our critic. This, however, is not our purpose. We are simply petitioning for a little justice, for a salary advancement commensurate to our hard lot, to offset the many disadvantages we are up against.

We thank you again for the friendly attitude incurred in your editorial.

Blames Buyer for Garrett's Easy Getaway

Editor Boston American:

I think the reason that Garrett got away is that the buyer is as guilty as the seller. I think that if you change your $1000 reward to why Garrett got away and give reasons and facts, you will start something. READER.

Defend Attitude of College Men After Work

Editor Boston American:

In Thursday evening's edition of the Boston Evening American there was published a letter from a "business man" who has had occasion to interview a number of college graduates for positions in his organization which might lead to responsible berths in time to come. He complains of the very pertinent questions put to him by these graduates, which are, in substance, as follows:

What is the salary?

What are the hours of employment?

Almost 10 years ago, after eight years of college and graduate college training, I set forth to look for a position and I came in contact with a gentleman whose views of the college graduate were similar to those of your correspondent. I listened carefully to an eulogy of the organization of which he was a member and of the splendid opportunities that the organization afforded for college trained men. In my innocence, I labored long and hard, and although I received numerous promotions, I found it was extremely difficult to obtain from this "splendid organization" a salary anywhere near commensurate with the positions I was called upon to occupy. When the occasion arose to ask for an increase in salary, I was awakened then to the fact that the possibilities for advancement in the "splendid organization," which I had been told were considerable when starting out at a small salary, were not so considerable after all.

I was on the lookout for a new position, and in time I met a different type of gentleman, an attorney with a national practice. Because of my training in the law, the sciences and the stenographic art, I was fortunate in obtaining a position as secretary to this fine gentleman, and within three years have moved into a position as a member of the firm.

It is time that these so-called "business men" perceived that the young man coming out of college is entitled to a somewhat better consideration than the unlettered office boy who starts at the bottom and works his way along. The college man has immediate potential possibilities. Throughout his course of employment, even though he be filling a minor position, day in and day out, he exercises a degree of intelligence and discretion which the young man who is not college trained will not exercise. He is entitled to a self-supporting wage which, under present conditions, is not $20 or $25 a week.

The time is at hand for the "business man" to appreciate that the appetite of the average, intelligent, college-trained man is not being satisfied with the talk Splendid Opportunity for Advancement But No Pay and Long Hours. He has a right to expect a square deal from the world and a right to expect to be self-supporting.

Seeks Federal Aid to Preserve Gay Head Cliffs

Editor Boston American:

Gay Head Cliffs, one of the most wonderful of nature's creations, is fast washing away according to several people who visit Martha's Vineyard year after year.

Public Works Commissioner Hale voiced the opinion that something should be done immediately to protect these cliffs or they would be lost to the world, at the annual meeting of the public works commission. The Chamber of Commerce of Martha's Vineyard has appealed to Congressman Gifford of the 16th district, asking his assistance in the cause.

The Gay Head Cliffs are composed of different colored clays, so brilliant in coloring that the natives have been accused of resorting to Indian witchery to keep the colors in the cliffs, but scientists have tried for years to solve the mystery of the cliffs and have been unsuccessful. The scientific men have lived on the cliffs and near them for months at a time in an effort to discover the secret, each time leaving more mystified than before.

Francis A. Foster of the county commissioners is heartily in favor of the federal government protecting the cliffs as it now owns considerable of the property adjoining.

Summer people who come from all parts of the country (a count last year showing 26 states represented with auto plates) will be asked to write their home Congressmen for their help in this effort to preserve the cliffs.

D. J. McBRIDE,
Oak Bluffs.

Blames Accidents to Blank Cartridge Pistols

Editor Boston American:

The leading industry of this city—a company which manufactures toy cap pistols and toy paper caps—is being seriously and unfairly treated through careless editing and reporting of certain newspapers.

Knowing that all worthwhile journals, in these days, are exceedingly keen to attain accuracy in their news presentation, I am writing you, as the July 4th season approaches, to request that you call the attention of your desk editors to this situation.

The trouble arises through the confusion of the absolutely harmless toy paper cap pistol, with the very dangerous toy blank cartridge pistol. Throughout the country, this summer, there will be many serious accidents caused by the toy pistols which use blank cartridges.

In newspaper reports of these accidents unless care is taken to insure accuracy, in many cases the accidents caused by the toy blank cartridge pistols will be charged to toy cap pistols. Last year nearly 100 of these accidents reported in the newspapers as "cap pistol accidents," were subsequently investigated by the paper cap pistol manufacturers. In every case it was found that the accident was caused by a toy blank cartridge pistol.

This unfortunate confusion has resulted in legislation barring the harmless toy paper pistol in many communities. In some, quite curiously, the very dangerous toy blank cartridge is permitted free sale where the harmless cap pistol is barred by law. The only reasonable explanation we have been able to find, is a confusion of ideas on the part of the public.

A. A. GRIFFITH,
Secretary, Westerville Chamber of Commerce.

Club Institute Will Be Held at Y. W. C. A. This Year

Meetings Will Take Place on First Thursday of Month, Mrs. Walker Announces

By NANCY BREWSTER

Club Institute, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker's clearing house of club ideas old and new, which last year was hailed with cheer, will this year be held at the Young Women's Christian Association Auditorium, 140 Clarendon st., enabling 500 Massachusetts clubwomen to exchange thoughts and recount successes that others may reap the profit of the experiences.

The meetings will be held the first Thursday of the month from October to April inclusive, presided over by Mrs. Walker, second vice-president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and participated in by club presidents and members at large.

An all-day Club Institute at Fitchburg, December 19, is now being planned for by the Fitchburg Woman's Club which is to be hostess to the delegation at that meeting.

Although nothing definite has been arranged for the sessions, Mrs. Walker assured that they will be conducted along last year's lines, with the discussion period again a prominent part of the program. Club Institute answers all the questions of clubwomen which are not ordinarily answered at club meetings and for which there is not sufficient time to go into details. Hence the tremendous attendance at the institute meetings.

Mrs. Walker, who has just returned from the Denver biennial convention, informed me that Mrs. Azel A. Packard was confirmed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs as Massachusetts director and that Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole was re-elected first vice-president of the national body.

Seven members of the Board of Governors of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts have left for Newagen, Me., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Joshua L. Brooks for four days. Mrs. Brooks is chairman of the Hampden county division of the club.

A program of boating, bowling, golf and bridge has been planned for Mrs. Frederick E. Judd, vice-chairman of the legislative department of the State Federation; Mrs. William S. Mitchell, Mrs. Joseph H. Soliday, Mrs. W. G. Webber, Miss Rachel Morse, Mrs. George W. Perkins and Miss Katherine V. Parker, president of the Women's Republican Club.

Twenty years of emergencies have been met by the industrial Credit Union, 264 Boylston st., started by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, organized in 1877, to promote the educational, industrial and social advancement of women.

The union is to celebrate its birthday next November and a comprehensive program is now under way supervised by a committee chosen from the membership of 1906 of the organization. Miss Mary H. Tolman, executive secretary of the Educational and Industrial Union, informs that the credit union has supplied members with the necessaries by which they have purchased their homes, winter coal and coats, sent children on vacations and all such philanthropic assistance.

Among those in charge of the birthday party are Miss Gertrude L. Fletcher, Miss Tolman, Miss Irene Varney, Miss Laurice Moreland, Mrs. Margaret Kellard and a group of men.

Marshfield Woman's Club to Be Hostess at Fete on July 19

Various organizations at Marshfield have been allotted a Saturday during the summer as part of the all-round Tercentenary program and the Marshfield Woman's Club will be hostess for Saturday, July 19. Mrs. Herman Kent, president of the club, has sent out invitations to all club women and their friends to come to the town on that day and view particularly Governor Winslow's house over which the woman's club will hold sway.

The Marshfield Woman's Club having held their annual meeting in March, and then continuing through with the exception of August, their club activities, will make July the month of a club meeting as well. About 150 women belong to the club organized in 1927. Rogers Library is the meeting place and 2:30 o'clock is the time.

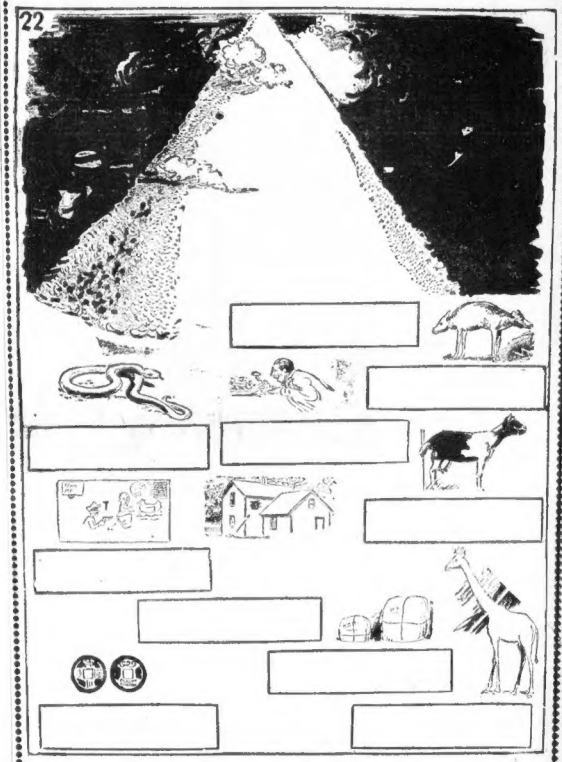
Ripley's WORD HUNT

$2500 In Cash Prizes FREE!

Everyone who has tried it is fascinated with the game. All you have to do is to find, in the Classified Ads, the descriptions to fit the pictures, then paste them in the right places. Complete sets of the first 6 pictures and copies of June 22 and June 29 Boston Sunday Advertisers are available for 10c each plus 2c postage, and back numbers of the Boston American for 2c each plus 2c for postage.

"Believe It Or Not" By Ripley



FOLLOW THESE RULES

1. Everyone is eligible to participate in the "Word Hunt" except employes of the Boston Evening American, Boston Sunday Advertiser, and members of their families.

2. Every day from June 30 to July 10 (July 4 excepted) ten Ripley "Believe It Or Not" pictures without descriptions will be published. The descriptions for each picture will be published in the Classified Ad Columns.

3. The "Word Hunt" consists in finding the Classified Ads, clipping them out, and placing each under the picture to which it refers. The words making up each description will appear in a single unit in one place.

4. Hold all the pictures until you have thirty complete sets of ten each—300 pictures in all. Then send them in to Ripley's "Word Hunt" Editor, Box 1B, Boston, Mass.

5. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Thursday, July 11. No entries will be returned to sender.

6. Two thousand five hundred dollars in cash prizes, in accordance with the complete prize list published herewith, will be paid to the persons sending in the most nearly correct and nearest complete set of pictures at the close of the "Word Hunt."

7. A committee of judges will be appointed by the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser to determine the successful contestants. All entrants agree to accept the decisions of these judges as final.

8. It is not necessary to purchase the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser to compete. This newspaper may be examined at its office or at the public libraries free of charge, and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures from the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

9. In case there are no complete sets of correct picture descriptions, awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct picture descriptions. In case of a tie, awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tie participants will receive similar awards.

10. The Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting this project, and the decision of the judges on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations made now or to be made. MR. BOSTON by JACK CONWAY

Johnny Risko Back in Boxing Picture Again

Mr. Boston has received a rather startling colored poster from Nate Lewis, matchmaker of the Chicago Stadium, which tells about the 10-round heavyweight bout between Johnny Risko and Tuffy Griffiths which will be staged in the Windy City tomorrow night.

Tommy MacFarland of the North End dropped into the office just when the poster arrived. He had a letter from Danny Dunn, Risko's manager, in which the latter told how Rubbery Jawn is going to lick Griffiths and continue on in the direction of the heavyweight title.

"Risko is one of the most remarkable figures in the boxing game," asserted Mr. Boston. "He may never be a champion, but he will upset the hopes of many young men who have title ambitions.

"In his poster, Nate Lewis calls attention to the fact that Risko has won decisions over George Godfrey, Jack Sharkey, Victorio Campolo and Paulino.

"Risko has had more ups and downs than any man in the heavyweight division. This may be due to the fact that he has been the most active of the big fellows with the exception of Al Friedman of Roslindale, who stepped to bat 52 times last year.

"In 1927, Risko engaged in 27 starts. Ten and fifteen round bouts didn't mean a thing to him. The wind was perfect, while he did his training in the ring under fire.

"Max Schmeling is the only heavyweight who ever scored a clean knockout over Risko. At the time Johnny wasn't going very well. He had been beaten by Paulino and Schaaf. He also outclassed the German. When Risko sailed back to score with a wicked left hook, Schmeling let fly with a right hand sock to the jaw. That punch did the trick. Although Risko got up, he was in bad shape and was soon tipped over again.

"I believe that if Schmeling and Risko were to meet again, the Cleveland warrior would win.

Griffiths Beat Risko in New York Garden

"Tuffy Griffiths isn't a stranger to Johnny. The Chicago warrior received a decision over Risko in the New York Garden last winter.

"Griffiths, like Risko, is an aggressive, two handed youth with a punch. But he cannot take it.

"James J. Braddock, who mingles with Joe Monte at Fenway Park tomorrow, knocked Griffiths out in New York.

"Jack Gagnon also topped Griffiths over with a terrific right hand smash to the chin.

"Risko, however, cannot punch as hard as either Braddock or Gagnon. Johnny is a busy fellow within the ring and tosses a lot of punches, but he is not a knockout artist. Even stumble bums have been known to go the distance with Risko.

"If Risko should get by Griffiths, he will once more demand consideration from the front runners in the heavyweight group.

"Sydney has Paul Swiderski battling Frankie Sims in a 10-round semi-final.

"Boxing has been drawing large gates in Chicago. Local boys on one end of the matches and some fighting shows are the reason for this healthy condition of affairs."

Fenway Park Boxing Season Gets Going

Col. Bob McKirdy called Mr. Boston's attention to the fact that the outdoor boxing season at Fenway Park will get underway tomorrow night with a bout between Joe Monte and James J. Braddock.

"I'll be down under the big lights when Braddock starts socking away," chirped Mr. Boston. "A youth who can stiffen Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Slattery knows how to toss his right duke.

"Braddock and Monte have twice battled to draws. So you may look for some fireworks at the Arena Club's show.

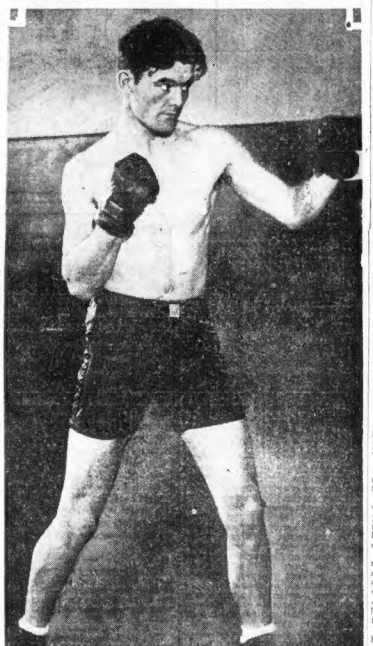
"I hear that Joe Tavoleri has put on weight and that he is battling as a light heavyweight.

"Like Jack Dempsey is ready to sweep into action again, and doesn't care who he knocks out.

"Henry Lamar looks like one of the best bets among the new crop of heavyweights. He's aiming for a match with Campolo. Lamar has won his last two starts.

"Gallant Fox can carry our money any time he sweeps into action, provided a young fellow by the name of Earl Sande is the jockey."

"RIGHT" FOR MONTE



JAMES J. BRADDOCK, who bathes Joe Monte at Fenway Park tomorrow night, is shown ready to let his famous right-hand punch fly. Braddock is a slight favorite to win.

MRS. MOODY IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Wimbledon, England, July 1 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, defending her British tennis championship, reached the semi-finals today by overwhelming Phyllis Mudford, young English star, 6—1, 6—2.

Elizabeth Ryan, native Californian now living in England, overcame Betty Nuthall, England's famous young internationalist, in another of the quarter-finals by scores of 6—2, 2—8, 6—0, to join Mrs. Moody in the semi-final round.

Mme. Rene Mathieu, first ranking woman player of France, speedily disposed of Joan Ridley of England, 6—2, 6—2, in a third quarter-final, thus qualifying as the semi-final round opponent of Mrs. Moody.

Miss Jacobs Beaten by German Girl

In the last of the women's singles quarter finals, Cecilie Aussem, Germany, defeated Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal., 6—2, 6—3.

Miss Jacobs made all sorts of mistakes at the start of her match, losing the first set mainly through over-hitting.

Miss Jacobs' physical condition, which has been somewhat below par ever since her arrival in Europe early this year, appeared partly responsible for the decisiveness of her defeat.

She tired rapidly and after winning the second game of the second set the American girl hit wildly and seemed near exhaustion. She was unable to win another game. All through the match Miss Jacobs lacked control, over-hitting the lines repeatedly.

Fraulein Aussem, on the other hand, was very much on her game.

In the semi-finals Miss Ryan will encounter the German star, while Mrs. Moody meets Madame Mathieu.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, defending titleholder, speedily took the first set from Phyllis Mudford, youthful English sensation, at 6—1.

Moody and Mudford in Baseline Battle

The Moody-Mudford match consisted mostly of baseline driving with the world's champion constantly keeping her opponent on the run and holding the upper hand.

Elizabeth Ryan won the first set from Betty Nuthall, young English star.

Miss Nuthall came back to take the second set from Miss Ryan, 6—2, and the match was all square.

In the first set both had played careful tennis with the American's famous chop strokes and her agility more than making up for the power of Miss Nuthall's backhand. But in the second set Miss Nuthall's driving began to get results.

Miss Nuthall made her last stand in the long second game of the third set. After this her defense collapsed and she proceeded to double fault three times and overdrive the baseline repeatedly.

In men's doubles, John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., and George Lott, Chicago, the American champions, defeated C. E. Malfroy and R. D. Pollard, English players, at 7—5, 2—6, 14—12, 6—3.

Tilden and Timmer Beat Youthful Americans

Bill Tilden and his Dutch partner, Hans Timmer, defeated Berkley Bell, Dallas, Tex., and Gregory Mangin, N. Y., in the third round of men's doubles in straight sets, 7—5, 6—4, 6—2.

Edith Cross of San Francisco and Sarah Palfrey, Boston, advanced in women's doubles, defeating Mrs. M. A. O. Wayne and Miss J. H. Montgomery, England, 7—5, 6—4.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan, recent winners of the French women's doubles championship, reached the semi-finals in their quest for the British title by overwhelming an English team consisting of Mrs. Randolph Lycett and Mrs. J. E. Hill, 6—2, 6—3.

Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus of France downed the Australian Davis cup combination of Jack Crawford and E. F. Moon, 2—6, —2, 6—1, 5—7, —4, in one of the feature matches in men's doubles.

ENTRIES POUR IN FOR N. E. TITLE MEET

The entry list for the 26th annual N. E. A. A. A. U. track and field championships which will be held at Merrymount Park, Quincy, on July 20, was augmented by one more 1929 champion yesterday.

"Pep" Clark of the West End Council, K. of C., sent in his entry for the three-mile walk and will seek to break his last year's record.

Last year "Pep" won the junior national and New England titles. This year he was second in the international 31-mile walk and won the cup for the first American to finish.

Among the many other entries received were Paul T. deInnis of Somerville in the 100 and 440-yard runs and the javelin throw. Anthony DiPasquale of East Boston high school in the shotput, javelin, discus and hammer throwing events; Leslie Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., in the six-mile run, and Emer H. Worth of Melrose in the same event. The games will be free to the public.

Cleveland Indians Have New Stadium

The Cleveland Indians will have a new stadium to play in which seats 80,000 persons.

FINANCIAL TROUBLE IS CAUSE

Springfield, June 30 (AP)—Pittsfield and Hartford withdrew from the Eastern League at a special meeting here tonight and the circuit will resume its second half Wednesday with but six teams, it was announced by President William F. Carey.

Financial difficulties caused the withdrawals, President Carey said. It has been rumored for several days that Pittsfield and Hartford would be unable to see their way clear to continue in the race.

The directors of the league remained in session until long after midnight considering the advisability of turning to night baseball as a means of increasing attendance during the second half.

It was stated that all owners were highly in favor of the plan. Two representatives of lighting companies appeared before the directors and gave estimates on the cost of installing flood lights for night games.

The schedule for the second half, just released, will be redrafted immediately. The six teams to make up the league will be Springfield, Albany, New Haven, Allentown, Bridgeport and Providence.

The Pittsfield-Hartford game scheduled for tomorrow has been cancelled.

BRADDOCK AND MONTE READY

Both Joe Monte, belting Brazilian from Brockton, and James J. Braddock, Jersey heavyweight, will wind up their training today for their 10-round bout tomorrow night at Fenway Park, under Arena A. C. auspices.

Although Braddock will rule a favorite in the betting, there are plenty of Monte backers, who are willing to wager even money that the young Monte will take Braddock over the jumps.

A strong preliminary card will support the feature bout. In the eight round semifinal, Battering Bobby Brown of Lowell faces Jack McCarthy, the cocky Irishman from Roxbury.

Six rounders find Pat Perkins and Pat O'Flaherty, fellow South Bostonians battling. In another six, Eli Henry, California, meets Steve Gorman, South Boston; Larry Doyle, California, clashes with Danny Regan, Gardner; and in the opening four, Young Eddie Sullivan of Walpole makes his third pro start against Tony Salleoa of Watertown.

Maddens Defeat St. Mark's, 5 to 3

The William J. Madden Club ousted St. Mark's from first place in the Dorchester Twilight League by winning last night's game at Wainwright Field, 5 to 2. The losers protested a decision by Umpire Moulton at first base in the third inning.

St. Mark's outhit the Madden club, but five errors behind Murch proved costly. O'Donoghue led the batting with a home run and a single, while Bill Roehner hit a double and a single for the Madden club.

Fator Most Popular Jockey at Aqueduct

Aqueduct, N. Y., July 1—Immediately after the running of the fourth race at Aqueduct yesterday—which was the Old Rosebud Handicap—Laverne Fator was voted the most popular jockey. Fator had brought Labor home victorious and all the boys and girls appeared to have written out many slips on him.

GREEN LOSES 8 GRID STARS

Hanover, N. H., July 1—Eight Dartmouth freshman football players of last fall, five of them stars, will be ineligible for varsity competition this year as a result of faculty action.

The men who are lost to the Big Green this fall are Lyn Shollenberger and Howard Wilson, backfield stars; Harold Mackey, 200-pound lineman; R. R. Mudge and K. O. Campbell, tackles; Tom Eastman, center; A. F. Waldenburg, guard, and R. E. Peck, end.

It was also learned that William Hoffman, freshman captain two years ago, also would be ineligible. The loss of these players leaves Head Coach Jackson Cannell only a handful of sophomore material to start a campaign which calls for games with Harvard and Yale in the East, and Stanford in the West.

There is a possibility, however, that Mackey may regain his standing through the successful passing of extra examinations. Wilson was one of the best backfield prospects at Dartmouth in years. He beat Harvard freshmen last year singlehanded with three touchdowns.

Eastman, the last pivot, was a former all-Illinois center. Campbell, it is expected, will not attend college this year. The loss of Hoffman, a junior, will be felt at tackle, where he was expected to fill a position on this season's varsity.

Revere Boy to Ride in 10-Mile Race

A 35-mile motor paced race is on tap next for fans at the Revere cycle track, with four riders scheduled to perform on Saturday night. The riders will be George Chapman, Franco Georgetti, the Am. ican champion, Charlie Winters and Al Lalonunier.

Nat Butler also will stage a 10-mile professional motor paced race with John Gallo, Revere boy, John Brosiolo, Robert Christian and Ralph Duffy riding.

Jack Coombs Drills Nephew at Duke

Jack Coombs, former pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics, now baseball coach at Duke university, has as one of his charges, Raymond Coombs, his nephew, a pitcher.

GAELIC GAMES ON HOLIDAY

The program of Irish football and hurling, which is being conducted under the auspices of the Massachusetts Gaelic Athletic Association July 4 at Technology field, Brookline, looms as one of the most interesting on record.

The local officials succeeded in putting on the same card the famous Cork and Galway senior pigskin exponents and this alone is expected to pack in the fans on the holiday. The complete arrangement of matches is as follows:

1:30 p. m.—Kerry vs. O'Connells, Junior football.

2:45 p. m.—GaGlway vs. Finners, Hurling.

4:00 p. m.—Cork vs. Galway, Senior football (main event).

5:15 p. m.—Young Irelands vs. Tipperary, Hurling.

6:30 p. m.—Mayo vs. Kerry, senior football.

Cork is rated one of the finest football machines in the East. The side, which will oppose the fighting Galway fifteen, is much the same as that which swept aside all opposition in capturing the pennant last season.

"Baby" Stribling Stopped in Second

Tulsa, Okla., July 1 (AP)—"Baby" Stribling, 146, of Macon, Ga., younger brother of the famous W. L., was knocked out in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout by Clausine Vincent, 145, of Stillwater, Okla., here tonight.

Injury Forces Von Porat to Cancel Bout

Tomahawk, Wis., July 1 (INS)—Otto Von Porat, hard-hitting Norwegian heavyweight, was suffering from a compound sprain of the ankle here at his summer home today. Von Porat slipped and fell while prowling around in a nearby woods. As a result he will be unable to make a scheduled appearance at Chicago July 16.

PRINCE W. WINS SAGE PARK TROT

Hartford, July 1—Prince W. and Guy Fletcher were easy winners of their respective events, the 2:15 and 2:18 trots, as the five-day Bay State Circuit meeting got under way at Sage Park here yesterday. Eric Red won the 2:18 pace in easy fashion also.

The Prince, owned by New Bronk Stable of New Jersey, and Guy Fletcher, owned by Woody Hill Farm of Salem, N. Y., scored three heat victories, while Eric Red won his two heats in the pace in two divisions.

W. Hodson drove Prince W. in first money in the $2000 2:15 trot, with Margaret Gratian, the favorite, with W. Flemming up, in second position. A Rodney high-lined Meridian third in two heats for show money.

Lyman Bruise took Guy Fletcher to the front in the $1000 2:18 event with Chestnut Harvester second, and Volo Yorke third.

Governor Trumbull in Title Trap Shoot

Bridgeport, Ct., July 1 (AP)—Gov. John H. Trumbull will be among the 150 or more gunners who will compete for the championship of Connecticut in the state title trap shoot contest to be held at the Seaside Rod and Gun Club here, July 11 and 12.

The shoot will be staged by the Housatonic Rod and Gun Club of Stratsford, of which A. H. Trumbull, brother of the governor, is president.

Shift Date of Fight

Philadelphia, July 1 (INS)—The Tony Canzoneri-Benny Bass bout booked for the night of July 28 at the Phillies ball park has been moved up to July 21.

RISKO FAVORED OVER GRIFFITHS

Chicago, July 1 (AP)—Customers attending the Johnny Risko-Tuffy Griffith heavyweight match at the Chicago stadium tomorrow night have been promised financial protection from a foul by Sidney Strotz, president of the stadium.

"If the match ends in a foul," Strotz promised, "we will deduct the amount of the forfeiture purse from the gross receipts of a rematch between the two fighters. Each ticket will be reduced in price accordingly so that a customer who paid $1, for instance, for Wednesday night's bout can see the second fight for 75 cents."

Diamond Pick-Ups

A mysterious Mr. Shannon of parts unknown, is in town, telling everybody that he is going to buy the Red Sox for his boss, who, he says, is a New York millionaire.

He has talked with Bob Quinn, and has yet to convince the Red Sox "prexy" that he can produce enough coin to purchase the franchise, although he has spent money freely since his arrival and has come as far as to reserve rooms at a local hotel for Jimmy Archer, old time catcher, and Johnny Evers, who, as far as can be learned, are going to direct the club for the new boss.

Ken Holloway, Cleveland pitcher, who was purchased by the Yanks today, narrowly escaped injury when he was hit by a line drive while working in batting practice before the first game with the Sox. He had to be carried to the clubhouse, but it was discovered that he hadn't suffered any broken bones. About half the Cleveland club is in poor physical shape.

JONES TO BE HERO IN N. Y. TOMORROW

New York, July 1 (AP)—The emperor of golf, Bobby Jones, will come home tomorrow to a welcome such as no golfer before him ever has received.

A celebration of a size that ordinarily is reserved for transatlantic fliers, returning war heroes and foreign dignitaries, has been arranged when Bobby steps off the S. S. Europa on his return from England where he won the British amateur and open championships.

In the crowd that gathers to do him honor as a great sportsman will be hundreds of friends from his home town of Atlanta. A "Bobby Jones Special" steamed out of Atlanta yesterday and was due in New York shortly after noon today with a trainload of the golfing wizard's admirers.

Preceding their fellow townsmen by a full day, Mr. and Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Hunter Terry, Atlanta real estate man, and Ralph Smith, representing the Atlanta Journal, landed at Newark (N. J.) airport yesterday after a five-hour flight from Atlanta.

Mayor John S. Cohen Heads Committee

On the "Bobby Jones Special" were Major John S. Cohen, president and editor of the Atlanta Journal, who headed the committee which arranged the trip; Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, R. J. Spiller, executive vice president of the Atlanta Baseball Club of which Jones is an officer; Dr. L. M. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, and other prominent Atlantans.

Under present plans arranged by Grover Whalen, New York's official greeter, and interested Atlantans, Bobby will get off the Europa at quarantine on the municipal tug Macom, give the city a chance to hail a golfing hero on an automobile ride up Broadway and have Mayor Walker give him the metropolis' official greeting at City Hall. Visiting Atlantans have chartered the excursion steamer Macom and plan to trail the Macom on its trip from quarantine.

After that, matters will be in Bobby's own hands. He will be invited by the Candlers to use their plans to fly to Minneapolis for the national open championship to be held at the Interlachen Club July 10-11-12.

Terris Meets Nebo

New York, July 1 (AP)—Sid Terris, veteran New York lightweight, meets Pete Nebo, Seminole Indian, from Tampa, Fla., for the third time in a 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium tonight.

English Golfers Will Play Country Club Links Team

CAMBRIDGE ON 3-WEEK VISIT

By BILL GRIMES

Arrangements were closed today by Harold W. Pierce, former president of the Massachusetts Golf Association, for a match to be played between Cambridge University and The Country Club at Clyde Park one week from tomorrow.

Cambridge University an eight man team is in Philadelphia for a match with the University of Pennsylvania and will come here immediately after. The match will pit the Red and Blue to play Harvard at The Country Club on Saturday.

William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, is arranging a series of matches for the English university team, which plans to remain in this section for three weeks.

Negotiations are under way for Cambridge University to play a team composed of Brae-Burn players, and will also play Wannamoisett, play at Myopia or Essex during their stay in New England.

Ouimet to Play for Country Club

Harold W. Pierce, who is chairman of the golf committee at Brookline, has selected the following players to represent the Country Club against Cambridge University: Francis Ouimet, Ray Gorton, W. C. Blaney, J. M. Batchelder, H. W. Fatahrook, Walter A. Carr, M. Merrett and F. P. Pfaelzer, Jr.

The Country Club and Cambridge University will have two matches' morning and afternoon. In the morning they will play four foursomes and in the afternoon eight singles.

On Saturday of this week Cambridge University will tackle Harvard, and the Crimson will be represented by Capt. Phillips Finlay, W. P. Arnold, Jr., James M. Baldwin, E. B. Murphy, Leonard Wood, Charles L. Stover, F. W. Sleeper and John Frothingham.

The collegiate match, Harvard and Cambridge, will be foursomes in the morning and singles in the afternoon.

Frank Mills on Dilboy Field Card

This evening, at Dilboy field, West Somerville, the City Employes' A. A. will hold its second open air amateur boxing tournament.

There will be open competition in the 112 133 175 heavyweight and 160 pounds novice classes.

The light-heavy class contains the names of Frank Mills of Worcester, New England champion, Donald Perry, Newburyport, and Frank Lovely, Watertown.

Francis Carter of Worcester, New England champion, is the outstanding entrant in the 135-pound class.

The 112-pound class has seven entrants.

Dick Merrick is in receipt of entries from Al Dean, Hellcat; Chester Linaire, West Medford, and Bob Pichet, Everett, for the heavyweight class.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The forearm rolling in the short game, as we have been discussing it so far, is your means to a free-flowing, straight, smooth swinging action and the straight ball which is so essential in the longer pitches. Now with the short pitches and run-ups, we may or may not want the forearm action—you want to omit it if your ball is to stop reasonably "dead."

For a ball to stop you have merely to make this change: As the blade swings through the ball use the same smooth, easy, practice-swing action, but go through the ball with the idea of making your right palm face the pin elevation through to the finish. And swing from the inside out slightly. This obviously keeps the club face at direct angles to the line of flight and gives the blade a tendency either to undercut the ball, putting backspin on the ball, or rather scoop the ball up and toss it onto the green, with or without the underspin. In either event it will fairly "clear" when it falls. In run-ups let the forearms roll easily through if the ball is to run a distance of 30 to 50 feet or more; otherwise it is better to pitch and "top it."

Does your game average 80-90? Do you want to get it near par? Chester Horton has just prepared a new monograph which should help any player lower his average by a good margin, especially the 85-90 player. To receive it send stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Sports Editor, this newspaper, and ask for "Helping Your Averages."

MISS HUNTER IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

In the first round of match play of the girls' junior championship at the Oakley Country Club today, Miss Dorothy Hunter of Albemarle, who was the semi-finalist in the W. G. A. championship, had little trouble winning over Miss Virginia Flanders of Winchester who was playing her first competitive match.

Although there was nothing sensational about Miss Hunter's golf it was steady and brought her a 9 and 7 victory.

Miss Priscilla Dennett of Essex county was carried to the fifteenth green by Miss Beauty of Wollaston in the lower half of the draw. Miss Ted Peterson, Crow Point, ran up a six-hole advantage during the outward holes over Miss Julia Knight of Wollaston, finally taking a 7 and 6 decision.

Miss Winfred Peal of Wellesley and Miss Joan Gavin of Charles River had a close match for the first nine, but the Wellesley girl finally won, 4 up and 3 to play.

In the semi-final round, which will be played tomorrow, Dorothy Hunter will meet Priscilla Dennett and Winifred Peterson will play Winfred Peal.

Dorothy Hunter, Albermarle, defeated Virginia Flanders, Winchester, 9 and 7.
Priscilla Dennett, Essex County, defeated Irene Prouty, Wollaston, 4 and 3.
Winifred Peterson, Crow Point, defeated Julia Knight, South Shore, 7 and 6.
Winfred Peal, Wellesley, defeated Joan Gavin, Charles River, 4 and 3.

Speed Boat Races Carded at Revere on Holiday

Speed boat races with outboard motors entered from several cities in the State, are on tap for Revere Beach on the afternoon of the Fourth.

A mile course has been laid out along the waterfront in plain view of the beach, starting at the foot of Beach st. and extending as far as Revere st. Trophies valued at more than $250 have been hung up for the winners of the free-for-all and other five and ten-mile events.

The big race of the day will be the Revere Beach classic in which outboards have been entered by several Revere men. Jimmie Gallagher of radio fame will be at the helm of the Still Hanging On. Others entered in this race are: The Derby Racer, with Bill Wollenhaupt at the wheel; Lillian, driven by Bill Wollenhaupt, Jr.; Cyclone with Young Shaveh; Marie with Bill Hurley driving, and several others.

The Mosquito Fleet of South Boston, Flea Fleet of Wakefield and other outboard organizations will be well represented.

Speed are expected but two State patrol boats and a Coast Guard boat have been assigned to render first aid. All these races are being run under New England Power Boat Association rules with H. A. Myers in charge. The Bay State Yacht Club is sponsoring the event.

Cricketers Prepare for 'Test' With R. I.

This is cricket week with the Massachusetts State Leaguers. Preparations have been completed for the interstate "test" match with Rhode Island, and an all-day "wicket" will be the order at Greystone Oval, a sport rule from the center of Providence, July 4.

The following day at Brookline, the Kingsbonn cricketers will cross bats with the West Indians, and, as Bitter Ball prevails, a great crowd should be in attendance for both fans. And as Brockton always has been a great cricket center, a big gathering should witness a great battle for supremacy. Here also no intimation is forthcoming as to the lineups, although on the West Indian side the names of Joe Lynch, F. Haynes and Reg Cave of Standards and Harry Holder of Wanderers are very probables.

It is also expected that St. George's, a match-winning combine, Everett, and Brockton all will be strongly represented, not forgetting Mystic and Rockland.

Princeton-Kent Crews Ready for Races

New London, Conn., July 1 (AP)—Princeton crew men today engaged in light work in their last practice before the Royal Henley regatta opens tomorrow.

The American oarsmen did two stretches on a course of about a quarter of a mile, the coach evidently feeling the need of practicing their experience with the course.

The Kent school also had light work today. Bates' ankle had improved enough to allow him to take his seat in the Kent boat.

The Argentina crew finished their training. They were about half an hour early this forenoon doing starts and spurts and for a short span, rowing at racing speed.

Braves to Play at Malden for Fund

The Malden Twilight team and the Boston Braves will play a game at the Malden high school field on July 11 for the benefit of the Malden Lodge of Elks' children's outing fund.

The game will start at 5:45. After the game the Tribe will be entertained at the Elks Home with a dinner and other festivities. Judge Burns and Secretary Cunningham of the Braves will be special guests.

Reading Defeats Lynn

Reading Town team chalked up a 4-1 victory over Lynn Gas & Electric at Reading yesterday, with Jack Harris of Dedham Academy, allowing only four hits.

Southeastern Loop May Play Night Ball

Montgomery, Ala. (AP)—The Southeastern league may become a night baseball organization the last half of the split season. Montgomery is playing night ball now; Tampa has ordered lights for its park and the other four clubs are giving the owl game serious consideration.

BOSTON PORT NEWS

By CARL MORRISON

The Army Base is back in the limelight. Powers of the U. S. Shipping Board in relation to the local terminal are again under fire and a check-up is to be made today by a representative of that board.

William J. McCarthy chief of terminals of the organization, will be in Boston all day today to study the various law suits which are pending and to look into other complaints which have been made not only to the board, but also to Senator Walsh and to Mayor Curley.

McCarthy, according to local members of the shipping board, is here on other business but will also go into the Army Base situation.

Mayor Curley has under advisement a complaint to the effect that one of the city assessors, while on the city payroll, is operating the terminal on a federal lease. This assessor, who is a Newton man, contends that his activities at the base are no concern of the city administration.

The mayor also has been told by various shipping interests that the present policies of the Shipping Board are not to the best interests of the port of Boston.

According to one of the local board officials, the Shipping Board is satisfied with the present terminal policies, since a large income is being obtained for the government.

The recent developments of protests against the alleged unsatisfactory policies of the board, are an outgrowth of official complaints made a short time ago. A committee of prominent Boston harbor men went in Washington to confer with the Shipping Board, but nothing developed at that conference.

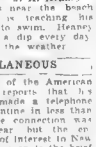
TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

The subject of today's Who's Who in Boston Harbor is J. H. Heaney, Boston representative of Shippers Service, Inc., which has consolidated car service between Boston and New York.



Joe Heaney Photo

Heaney is one of the most popular members of the Foreign Commerce Club and is active in all its programs. He was chairman of the committee on entertainment of the ladies at the outing and was a big success.

This resident of Atlantic lives near the beach and has hobby is teaching his youngsters how to swim. Heaney said to take a dip every day, no matter what the weather.

MISCELLANEOUS

Jack Halloran of the American Republics line reports that his office recently made a telephone call to the Argentine in less than 30 minutes. The connection was exceptionally clear but the encouraging point of interest is New England business men is the brief time required for the call.

Chester Gardiner, who started to form a club of harbor people interested in upholding one of the recent amendments reports having received invitations to speak at women's clubs in outer Boston.

Rena Costello has gone in Ranger, Me., for a week to supervise a pulp wood shipment, but will combine business with pleasure as he has many friends there.

The Danish steamer Freda will arrive in the port today with a big load of German potash totaling about 3700 tons consigned through Stone & Downer.

The Pan American Petroleum and Transportation Company reports the I. C. White due here today at 4 o'clock. She is carrying 80,284 gallons of gasoline from the Dutch West Indies for Boston, Providence and Jacksonville, Fla. Eight company employes are passengers.

20 MIN. REST AS FOUL CURE

There will be no foul finish when Riccardo Rerlazzolo Italian giant, clashes with Tom Heeney of New Zealand at Mechanics Building next Monday night, according to the present plans of Promoter Eddie Mack who will file a request with the state boxing commission to permit a 20 minute rest in case of an unintentional low blow.

The Hub promoter will introduce for the first time in this hour a new protector to be worn by the principals which will almost entirely eliminate any chance of either fighter being injured so badly that he will be unable to continue.

According to Mack's plan a low punch which may incapacitate one of the principals will result in a 20 minute rest and a preliminary bout will be substituted. Then the principals in the heavyweight feature will return to the ring.

Both Rerlazzolo and Heeney have agreed to Mack's plan, for both of these colorful heavyweights are anxious to crush the streak of fouls, which has been recently hurting the game.

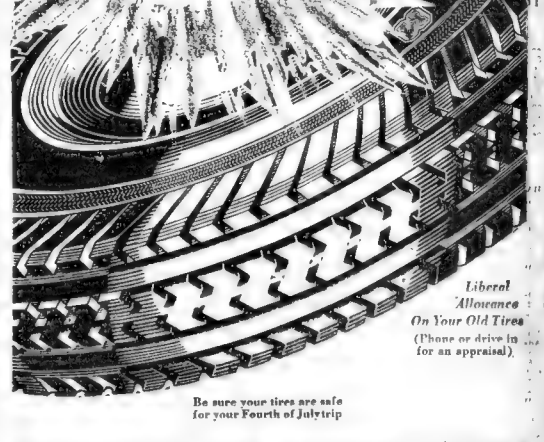
Liberal Allowance On Your Old Tires
(Phone or drive in for an appraisal)
Be sure your tires are safe for your Fourth of July trip



ABOVE is the famous Miller guarantee that shocked the Tire industry of America into a realization that Miller had dealt a fatal blow to mileage guarantees.

Read it—you will readily see why this unsurpassable guarantee created a sensation among tire makers and tire dealers as well as among motorists.

When this startling guarantee was first announced we were besieged with such questions as "Do you mean it?" and "How can you do it?" We know why we can do it—just as you will know after you've used Miller Tires.

It has caused thousands to buy their first set of Miller Tires. The reason is obvious. It's the only kind of guarantee that insured maximum value for your dollars. Read it again, and judge whether this is true.

Come in. Get all the facts.

INDIA BOYCOTT SPREADING

Bombay, July 1 (AP)—The second day of the "boycott week" against British goods resulted in noisy demonstrations today and again in the partial or cessation of work.

Bombay students led large demonstrations and besieged English-owned stores tonight. Europeans returning home were insulted and jeered, and persons mistaken for members of the criminal investigations department were mobbed.

A theatre syndicate owning six motion picture plaza and one legitimate theatre joined the partial cancelling today's shows. It was estimated that more than 50 per cent of the cotton mills were idle.

At Allahabad Pandit Motilal Nehru, president of the All-India congress working committee, and Dr. Sayed Mahmud, the secretary, were sentenced to six months simple imprisonment each for their civil resistance activity.

Police at Delhi arrested six Nationalist volunteers and four farmers in a nearby village charging them with instigating non-payment of taxes.

Martial law was lifted from Sholapur, but the Government prohibited display of congress flags for two months.

Greeters Plan for National Home

Denver, July 1 (NS)—Six hundred delegates were in attendance here today at the national convention of the Hoel Greeters of America, which will continue through Thursday. Establishment of a $500,000 endowment fund for maintenance of the National Greeters' home in Denver is one of the chief proposals before the convention.

Fashion Forecasts in American Daily

"Fashion is an accepted style, a style accepted by a considerable number of people," says Amos Parrish, whose articles on "What's In Fashion?" will appear daily exclusively in this newspaper starting July 7.

"Fashion trends move slowly, from season to season, and not overnight. Fashion can be traced, charted and forecast well in advance. Things do not need to be new to be in fashion.

"The present fashions are the result of gradual development. They are not as radical as most people believe. The basic trends go back to shortly after the war, when a reaction began against the boyish, unfeminine styles.

"The trend toward more femininity, more formality, has been greater this season. More attention is given to dressmaker details, to intricate seaming to fit the body, and to be more decorative.

"Of course skirts are longer. The trend has been in this direction during the past year in particular."

The 'What's In Fashion?" articles will report daily the leading fashions in apparel and accessories, in furniture and home furnishings. The first article will tell how fashion changes take place, what are the causes that produce new fashions, where new fashions originate, how you can tell whether or not a thing is in fashion.

Amos Parrish starts in by clearing away much of the mystery about fashion. He explains the difference between a fashion and a style, the way in which fashion trends are checked and fashions forecast months ahead.

The first "What's In Fashion?" article will appear in the Boston Evening American on July 7.

BRANDEIS WILL AID ZIONISTS

Cleveland, July 1 (AP)—Hope for unification of forces within the Zionist Organization of America was increased today with the assurance of Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis that he stands ready to cooperate with leaders of the movement after nine years of differences with the administration.

The Brandeis administration was overthrown in 1921 and since then he and Federal Judge Julian W. Mack of New York had headed forces dissenting with the present administration.

Brandeis' offer to return to the organization in an advisory capacity was enthusiastically accepted as the "means of bringing about in our ranks that good will and faith needed to unite all forces in American Israel for the upbuilding of Eretz Israel in a resolution unanimously adopted at the 33rd annual convention here last night.

Meanwhile negotiations were continued in an effort to reconcile opposing leaders.

GOVERNORS FOR SALES TAX

Salt Lake City, July 1 (AP)—Problems of state taxation, which occupied a large share of the opening days sessions of the National Governors Conference, held a prominent place on today's program.

A sentiment for the ultimate discontinuance of property taxes for the support of state government and the substitution of sales or other excise taxes was developed from the round table discussion that followed an address by Governor William G. Conley of West Virginia.

That the sales tax should be in lieu of a property tax, and not in addition to an ad valorem levy, was the position of Governor L. G. Hardman of Georgia, who said a proposed constitutional amendment in his state would withdraw the ad valorem tax from its present level of five mills to a minimum of one mill.

HUDSON is World's Largest Selling "EIGHT"

Registrations officially recorded by every State in the Union show that for this year more Hudson Eights have been delivered to consumers than any other eight in the world.

Here is the Why of Hudson Eight Leadership

The public's award of eight-cylinder leadership to Hudson comes in a year when eight-cylinder cars are in the spotlight of motor attention and scrutiny. All eights have been widely and carefully studied; eight-cylinder rivalry has been keen. And out of this situation has come the public's verdict for Hudson.

Proving how Hudson's performance deserves this leadership 25 stock cars were subjected, in a nation-wide test, to a solid week's non-stop run. All conditions of weather and roads were encountered. Some of these runs were made over country highways—some were altogether city driving. In each instance the motors ran without stop for 168 hours—7 days.

Average gas consumption in 124,730 miles was 14.585 miles per gallon. Top speed exceeded 80 miles an hour. Braking efficiency was approximately twice police standard. Acceleration and hill-climbing tests exceeded all previous Hudson records. Not a car or motor failed.

One car in Kansas covered 7,533 miles—one in and near Philadelphia 7,017 miles—better than 1,000 miles a day. Average distance for all cars was 4,990 miles.

This great test proved reliability and performance in every driving condition. It proved economy such as no one ever expected in an eight. It proved smoothness and riding ease, for such runs would be impossible without these qualities. We stand ready to prove to you personally similar abilities and similar leadership.

Victor in California Tests

With nearly all makes submitting bids, Hudson's Great Eight, with 100% score, overwhelmed all competition in tests conducted in the purchase of cars for the department of Highway Control of the State of California.

Wins Famous Tour de France

Against eighty-seven cars from every country Hudson scored 100% in winning the highest honor including the Ansaldo Cup in the nine-day Tour de France, most celebrated of the annual tests staged on the European Continent.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

One convoy of wounded after another is the lot of the women's ambulance corps of which Helen Smith is a member. Commandant whom Took has christened "Mrs Itch," is a hard task-master Strenuous work, little sleep and poor food shock even the girls. When Smithy's mother writes giving her silly war views, "Smithy," picturing the war-ravaged men, revolts. But letters from her war-worn sister, Trix, are treats Deaths are numerous and heart-rending.

CHAPTER 18

My funeral is from No. 13 and I am a quarter of an hour late on account of a puncture. The doors of the little corrugated-tin mortuary are open. The orderlies are impatiently awaiting my arrival.

They extinguish their cigarettes and dive inside as I turn the corner that leads to the dead-house. Hardly have I pulled up than they have hoisted the first plain deal bag-covered coffin on their shoulders and are loading up.

The corporal stands by giving orders. He complains aggrievedly to me at intervals that what with one thing and another he's had no dinner today — everything simply chronic—men dying like flies —they'll be running out of coffins before the week's out —and no dinner to crown all.

One of the strings that holds the Union Jack to a coffin has been carelessly tied. The flag slips into the mud.

"Now, then, Eminway," he chides, severely, "what are you adoing of?"

Row of Mounds

Victims of Youth's Lure

He runs into the mortuary for a fresh flag. The coffin carriers sink to their ankles in mud, squelching in and out. I sit staring straight ahead. The Witch's Hand reaches out ghoulishly in the wind as the corporal ties a clean Union Jack on the coffin to the accompaniment of a running commentary on Eminway's shortcomings.

I am very tired today, mentally as well as bodily. I have been conveying thats a flag-covered boxes for months now to the ugly little cemetery that scars the valley and I see no end. I have lost count of the number of times I have been a supernumerary in the last scene of the great war drama that opens gaily in a recruiting office and drops its final curtain amid no applause on a plain deal coffin draped with a Union Jack to the tune of "The Last Post" from an orchestra of two.

The last picturesque tableau in the masquerade. Countless young lives ending prem turely as numbers in a row of muddy earth mounds in a bare tract of hastily walled-off ground. Victims of youth's eternal hurry—the lure of what may be waiting just round the corner.

Fine youth, eager youth, trusting youth. Five plain deal boxes of standard measurement. What has life in store for us, the seven pants were wondering but a short while ago? Now they are about to be made numbers in a row of muddy earth mounds in a bare tract of hastily walled-off ground.

Fortunate perhaps is that they died, for once belief is shattered it is better to die. We young ones doomed to live on without belief in anything human or divine again are the ones to be pitied.

Wishes Grey Day

For Her Funeral

"O. K. All away."

The corporal signals that I am loaded. The padre is already at the cemetery, also the buglers. Now to hope he can have a bite or I'll be coming back to fetch him next trip. All this he tells me, very tickled at his little joke, as I back the ambulance for the crawl into the valley.

The mud is a foot deep. We turn the corner, the orderlies squelching solemnly alongside, cursing amiably each time they strike an extra deep puddle. Overhead is a blue sky streaked with long scurrying clouds, the wind is rough but lacks the cutting quality of the past weeks, the winter sun shines weakly, and there is an indefinable something in the air that wafts the blood and heartens the flagging spirit.

Perhaps it will end soon. Who knows? Bad indeed to be hidden from sight forever today in the

Sought by Police

MISSING SINCE MAY 28. Mrs. Laura Gagne Reagan and little daughter of Manchester, N. H., are sought by the husband and father, Edward C. Reagan. He was in the veterans' hospital in Washington suffering from wounds inflicted in the war when Mrs. Reagan wrote she and little Laura were leaving.

VET HUNTS WIFE AND DAUGHTER

While Edward C. Reagan, of 203 Wilson st., Manchester, N. H. was in the United States Veterans Hospital, at Washington, D. C., receiving treatment for wounds he suffered during the World War, his 29-year-old wife, Mrs. Laura Gagne Reagan, and his seven-year-old daughter, Violet, disappeared on May 28, and have not been heard from since

Reagan today appealed to Boston and Lynn police to search for his wife and daughter, as he has received information that they were seen in both cities

Reagan served with the 306th Supply Company during the war. He went into the hospital at Washington on May 9 and remained until June 12. On May 28, he said, he received a letter from his wife to the effect that she was going away. Reagan collapsed and his condition has been serious since.

UPHOLDS BOOK SALE FINES

The sale of religious literature without a license is a violation of Massachusetts statutes, the full bench of the Supreme Court ruled today.

Court overruled exceptions of Dr. Harold O Royal of Malden and E. Robert Anderson who was fined in a test case in Middlesex Superior Court for selling books of a religious nature without licenses

Both are interested in the International Bible Students Association and claimed that in selling religious books they were exercising their constitutional right in preaching the gospel according to the dictates of their conscience. Court ruled that dissemination of religious belief did not cover the selling of books from house to house without a license.

WIFE SUES TALBOT FOR DIVORCE

She Also Gets the Temporary Custody of the Child He Is Accused of "Stealing"

Herbert H. Talbot, wealthy Marblehead yachtsman and aviator, who last week "abducted" his own child from the Salem home of his estranged wife, has been sued for divorce.

Furthermore, Mrs. Talbot has been given temporary custody of the child, Francis Story Talbot.

Suit was filed in probate court at Salem, yesterday, but did not become known until today. Mrs Talbot alleges cruel and abusive treatment. The Talbots were wed October, 1917, at a brilliant North Shore society function

When asked whether the child had been returned to her, Mrs Talbot said today:

"The incident is closed as far as I am concerned."

STATE OPENS FIRE PROBE; SCORE LEFT HOMELESS

People in Fire-Swept District Tell of Seeing Boys Run From Scene

Three boys seen running from the scene just before the flames were discovered may have set the fire which destroyed the W. S. Burbank sawdust plant, Washington st., Somerville, and 12 adjacent tenements, it was learned today.

State officials began an investigation to determine whether the fire was incendiary after both firemen and police reported the presence of the boys near the Burbank plant. Inspector Edward Horrigan of the fire marshal's office was in charge of the investigation.

More than a score of persons were made homeless by the flames spread through the entire East Somerville section.

Six firemen were injured during the fire which raged from Revere Beach and Medford, Cambridge and Arlington and Boston joined.

SPARKS IGNITE ROOFS

A high wind fanned the burning embers and sparks of what it was responsible for more than 30 roof fires on neighboring dwellings. Within 50 feet of the main fire was the gasoline storage plant of the Gulf Refining Co

Every effort was best to keep the flames from attacking this plant. A wall of water was maintained during the height of the fire, with a spider net, in the wind, prevented the destruction of the storage tanks

At the height of the fire Lieutenant Glenn Cole of Engine 3, Somerville suffered a broken right ankle when a beam fell on him He was taken to the Somerville Hospital

LIST OF INJURIES

Other firemen injured are:

BRIDGES, Capt. George, Engine 4, somerville; right arm burned

HAYES, Hoseman William, Engine 1, Medford; overcome by smoke.

SNOW, Ladderman Horace, Ladder 4, Somerville; cut on the right hand, back injuries.

MOORE, Hoseman Joseph, Engine 2, Somerville

Five were able to return to duty after treatment

The fire started in the basement of the sawdust factory owned by Mary L. Mahoney of 12 C Division at Chelsea town and quickly spread to adjoining tenement houses.

West End Man and $400 Are Missing

Chester Bridges, 34, and $400 were reported missing today by relative with whom he lives at 6 Hancock st, West End. Bridges left yesterday for a walk and had with him the $400, police were informed

His failure to return aroused apprehension and Boston authorities notified police of 20 nearby cities and towns

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN DONAHUE TO RESIGN, SEEKS STATE OFFICE

WILL RESIGN POST WITHIN MONTH

Lack of Co-operation From Party Leaders Believed Cause for Decision

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Frank J. Donahue has practically made up his mind to resign as chairman of the Democratic state committee, to take effect on July 15 or August 1.

The chairman is thoroughly disgusted with the way that members of the party are throwing their hats into the ring for state offices without practically no backing and ruining the chances of the party's success this fall.

He is also aroused over the selfishness of the big wigs themselves, whom he believes are interested only in their own individual advancement.

WILL SEEK OFFICE

It is known that Donahue who gave up a lucrative position as one of members of the state industrial accident board—to take over the management of the 1928 campaign which saw the success of Al Smith and Senator David I. Walsh in Massachusetts, has been receiving little or no encouragement lately from the party leaders.

Therefore he expects to be a candidate, either for the senatorship or for the governorship, preferably the latter, against former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

The present date of July 15 or August 1 were set to give time for the conference which Senator Walsh has agreed to hold with other Democratic chieftains in an endeavor to iron out the candidate situation before the primaries.

That former Mayor Fitzgerald has no intention of quitting the race in favor of any other Democrat was indicated by his reaction to published stories that he was being urged to give way to Joseph B. Ely of Westfield.

He let it be known in no uncertain language that he is in the race to stay. Fitzgerald however, is in hearty agreement with the Walsh conference plan.

PLAN CONFERENCES

Senator Walsh will make his first political speech in Massachusetts since the 1928 campaign at an outing and dinner to be held by the Ninth District Democratic committee at Mishawum Inn Saturday, July 12. The Democrats are organized in this district to wrest the Congressional seat away from Charles L. Underhill.

It appears now that the Democratic State convention will be held in Boston on September 5, the same day that the Republican state convention meets.

OFF FOR SALEM WILLOWS on the first of the Fresh Air Fund outings today, these children of the South End greeted ex-Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols on the way. Future outings will include children of Chinese, Italian and Greek districts. (Staff photo.)

Four bus loads of happy, frolicking South End children left St. Cyprian's Church, Tremont and Walpole sts., today for Nantasket on the first fresh air outing of the season managed by the Boston Industrial Home through the Fresh Air Fund.

Ex-Mayor Nichols, president of the Industrial Home, was present to see the children off. Before the departure he addressed them in the church. He cautioned them to be careful during the ride and told them that the future of Boston and the country rested on their shoulders.

Freeman O. Emery, treasurer, a former representative, and Oliver C. Elliott, superintendent, had charge of the trip.

Mayor Gives List of Don'ts for Safety on July Fourth

These DON'TS for July 4 were included in Mayor Curley's holiday proclamation:

DON'T hold firecrackers in your hands.
DON'T fool with firearms.
DON'T throw firecrackers.
DON'T shoot them off under bottles.
DON'T play pranks with fire.
DON'T permit flames to spread.
DON'T carry fireworks in pockets.
DON'T fool with dynamite caps.
DON'T believe sparklers are harmless.
DON'T play with toy pistols.
DON'T let any kind of an accident spoil your glorious Fourth.
DON'T spend weeks in a hospital for a minute of carelessness.

MAYOR PLEADS FOR 'SAFE AND SANE' JULY 4

Gives List of Bonfires, Warns of Street Blazes and False Alarms

Pleading for a safe and sane holiday, Mayor Curley today issued the following Fourth of July proclamation to the citizens of the city:

By MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY

The City of Boston invites the citizenship in aiding the boys and girls, to join with the city officials in a sane and safe observance of Independence Day and the Glorious Night Before.

In 1929 there were 217 fire alarms from 6 p. m. July 3 to midnight July 4, resulting in a considerable loss of property, and that this unfortunate and unwarranted menace may be in a year prevented a liberal sum of money has been made available for the display of fireworks and for bonfires which may be witnessed by the public with safety.

BONFIRES ARRANGED

Upon the night before the 4th of July bonfires have been authorized at the following places:

Columbus Park, South Boston.
John J. Connolly Playground, Roxbury.
Garvey Playground, Neponset.
Smith's Pond Playground, Hyde Park.
Smith Playground, Allston.

Upon the Fourth of July night the city has been extremely liberal in expenditure of public money for fireworks exhibitions which are public and likewise invited and which will be held at Boston Common.

Jamaica Pond.
Columbus Park, South Boston.
Savin Hill Playground, Dorchester.
Franklin Field, Dorchester.
Smith Playground, Brighton.
Connolly's Playground, Marcella st., Roxbury.

The number of persons killed and injured last year in consequence of carelessness in the handling of fireworks and firearms was far in excess of the number killed and wounded in the most important battle of the Spanish-American War and in most cases the victims were children.

WARNS OF OTHER FIRES

The setting of bonfires in the streets constitutes a real menace and there is no more effective means of destruction of property and possessions of life, that may result from such fires and in view of the fact that no permits have been issued for bonfires there is no way to justify a violation of this character.

The police department has been directed to co-operate with the fire department in preventing the lighting of a match since, through such an act the efficiency of the fire department is impaired and should a fire break out while the apparatus is absent on a false call there is always the possibility of the loss not only of property but of human life and there is no means of determining that this destructive fire may not be turned upon the home and the family of the individual sending such false alarm.

Warning on Menace of Fire Balloons

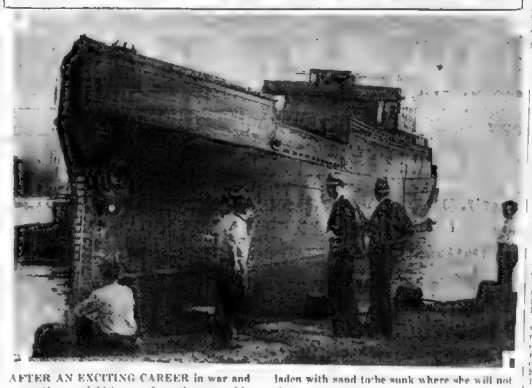
A warning to the general public against the liberation of fire balloons during the Fourth of July celebration was today issued by Commissioner of Conservation William A. L. Bazley.

The law against this practice, he quoted as follows:

"Whoever liberates or flies a fire balloon shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or by imprisonment for not more than one month, or both."

During last year's celebration, the commissioner revealed, some 30 forest fires were caused by these fire balloons.

Dry Law Dooms Her to a Wet Grave



AFTER AN EXCITING CAREER in war and peace-time prohibition warfare, the steamship Moritz was on her way today to a watery grave just outside of Boston harbor. She was laden with sand to be sunk where she will not obstruct navigation. She was seized as a rum-runner after having sailed the seas as a government vessel. (Staff photo.)

TOW RUM SHIP MORITZ OUT TO BE BURNED

Is Laden With Sand to Make Sure of Sinking After Fire Does Work

The wooden steamer Moritz, only 12 years old, but wanted by nobody, was towed today from a Northern ave. dock to the open sea to be doused with gasoline and fired—a premature Fourth of July toast to Davy Jones.

Her hold was filled with sand when she was towed out by two tugs, and her seacocks will be opened off Boston Lightship, to insure sure of the job. Before nightfall the vessel will rest forever 120 feet below the rolling waves.

The Moritz started downhill when seized for violation of the navigation laws government officials, being satisfied she was a dangerous and long since she became a white elephant on the hands of her new owner, Joseph F. Ryan.

An accumulation of wharfage and other charges convinced Ryan she could not be put back in service without great expense, and he doomed her to a watery grave.

Thousands of North Shore commuters on the ferry boats saw the unsightly craft towed away.

BENJAMIN ABBOT HOMESTEAD, ANDOVER

SHELTERED BY A STEEP bluff in the rear as if needing protection from the elements, an aged homestead faces the curving road in Andover.

Benjamin Abbot built well in 1685, so that the family has been housed for generations in this wooden structure of "one great chimney" design. His father, Georga Abbot, was the first ancestor in this country. George and Hannah Abbot raised 10 children and had at least 73 grandchildren.

Benjamin was born in 1861 to troublous times, for two of his brothers were killed by Indians. Timothy Abbot, another son of George, was captured by the Indians, when he was a small boy. However, a grown man, he put on his mother and returned the young [illegible] captivity.

In 1683 Benjamin married Elizabeth, daughter of Ralph Farnum, and built the homestead. This was after his father's death in 1681.

Records state that Benjamin was threatened by Martha Carrier, later tried in Salem for practicing witchcraft.

"Among her unguarded speeches was brought against her that she had declared 'she would stick as close as the bark of a tree' to Benjamin Abbot."

This remark was caused by a disagreement between her husband and the Abbots about the surveying of land.

She said "she should repent his conduct afore seven years came to an end—she would hold his nose so close to the grindstone as even it was held since his name was Benjamin Abbot."

Benjamin, shortly after, became so ill that he was sure Martha Carrier had put a curse upon him. She was the first to be arrested in Andover for witchcraft. When she was taken away, Benjamin began to gain his health so witnesses at her trial stated. Poor Martha unrepentant was hanged in the company of four men, at Salem in 1692.

Andover is one of the most beautiful towns north of Boston. It is the home of Phillips Academy. Many noted men and women have lived in its houses, among them Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The Benjamin Abbot homestead played its part in a recent celebration, although not occupied at present. The huge elm in the yard has been aided by human endeavor in prolong its existence. Great chains, running from a central ring in its heavy limbs near the top, keep it from swaying and splitting.

Andover lies on Route No. 28 north of Boston.

Tomorrow—Blake House, Dorchester.

TIP ON STEAMER IN DISTRESS WINS $25 PRIZE FROM AMERICAN

KEEN CONTEST FOR 28 CASH AWARDS

Stories Sent in to American Show Readers Have "Nose for News"

That readers of the Boston Evening American are developing a real "nose for news" was strikingly revealed in the third week of the news tip competition, whose winners are announced today.

Each week has seen an increase in the quantity and quality of the information telephoned to the News Tip Editor at Liberty 4000, but it remained for the week just ended to produce a wealth of first page stories.

First prize of $25 went to a man who has requested that his name be withheld. His story was closely seconded by that of W. J. Paradise, 26 Birch st., Atlantic, to whom the second award of $15 has been given. In a close contest for third honors, the News Tip Editor decided that Jeremiah Sullivan, 509 Talbot ave, Dorchester, has a shade the better of the argument.

23 OTHER AWARDS

In addition to the three capital prize winners, there were 25 other persons whose stories, while not of such outstanding worth, did entitle them to some recognition. The names of these winners of the $2 awards are given below.

But before we go into that it might be well to illustrate the type of story that nine times out of 10 will win a capital award for its bearer. In all it must be remembered that SPEED and ACCURACY are prime requisites.

Take the case of the first prize winner. His tip came just before the entries closed on last week's contest. He was in a position to get first hand information of shipping movements. Early in the morning he learned that the Governor Dingley was stranded off the Maine coast with 300 passengers aboard.

SPEED NECESSARY

His first thought was to get to a telephone, call Liberty 4000 and inform the News Tip Editor of what had happened. His speed enabled the American to gather all available data in time for the early edition. As a result this paper was the first to carry the story and the man won first prize.

That case illustrates several things. One is that to be eligible for a prize your tip must come in FIRST. No matter how good it is or how much detail you may have if some one has beaten you your tip cannot be considered in the final award.

It also shows the type of story that is acceptable. It must be something that interests people. And by the same token if it interests you that is a pretty good sign that it is news.

NEWS EVERYWHERE

News isn't partial either. There isn't a place in the world that can't furnish news. Your home, the office, the street, in fact wherever people may be found, news may also be found.

But remember when you have discovered some news get to a telephone quickly. Be FIRST in telling the News Tip Editor at Liberty 4000. And again, if after you have telephoned you discover some new fact call back the SECOND time with your information. It may have added element which advances an ordinary story to front page rank.

Mr. Paradise, the second prize winner, bore all these facts in mind when he gave the very FIRST news about the six-alarm freight yard fire near the Charlestown State prison.

Remember also that it is persistency that counts. Many you have telephoned several times only to find that someone has preceded you. Don't let that worry you. Mr Sullivan, the last of the capital prize winners, tried many times before he finally won with a tip on a new confidence game worked by so-called candy stock salesman.

MUST BE FIRST

Many of those whose names appear below were not successful in their initial attempt. Remember you must be FIRST, you must be QUICK and you must be PERSISTENT. Here are the names of the $2 winners:

Fred O'Hare, 176 Oliver st., Boston. Rum seizure at the Appraisers' Stores.

J. J. Mahoney, 301½ Broadway, South Boston. Auto crash that injured four on West Broadway, South Boston.

Edward Hickey, 21 Mystic st., Charlestown. Rescue of pup from a sewer in Peterboro st., Back Bay.

Carl H. Ericson, 67 Bearse ave., Dorchester. Freak story of a polecat who ate his brother's luncheon.

James McNulty, 807 Hyde Park ave. Baby named for Admiral Byrd.

(———), Poison death of mother of six in Roslindale.

Ben Gilzerj, 615 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge. Boy traffic cop in Cambridge.

William McAuley, 12 Auklow st., Brookline. Man who dropped dead in a street car.

Charles Langdon, 106 Edwin st., Quincy. Auto over embankment at Wollaston Beach.

George Payne, 480 Saratoga st., East Boston. $10000 bond that I uttered out window during Byrd reception.

Frank LeSage, 272 Highland ave., Somerville. Taxi driver who found diamond ring.

Robert Carroll, 254 Webster st., East Boston. Bus crash at Norfolk ave. and Atlantic ave.

Mrs. Mae Clark, 5 Morris ave., Brighton. Crippled boy who rescued kitten from sewer.

Daniel J. Riley, 15 Mather st., Dorchester. Gas death at 44 Clarendon st., Back Bay.

Neponset Prepares for Night-Before-the-Fourth Bonfire

HUNDREDS OF BOYS and men are doing their bit for the Neponset bonfire. Here we have William Werner and Richard O'Connell bringing in the wood. These boxes were dropped into the interior of the bonfire framework.

JOHN T. McCARTHY, general chairman of the Neponset bonfire arrangements, says 100,000 people will see the blaze.

JOHN J. CONCANNON, secretary of the committee, putting on Mardi Gras program on Thursday at Neponset playground.

IT WILL PAY YOU to make your way to Neponset on Thursday night. This great structure will go up in smoke. Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald will set the torch to the dry wood (Staff photos.)

Huge Fire to Herald Fourth in Neponset

If you want to see a demonstration of anti-like industry, go out to Neponset playground any evening.

Carrying old railroad ties for the outer rim, and hundreds of barrels and boxes for the "stuffing," members of Redberry Council, K of C and scores of volunteers are rearing a 65-foot pile for ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald to set a torch to at midnight Thursday.

Charged with the task of running the program on the playground this year, the K of C men obtained the services of an expert builder to supervise the work of constructing the tall pyre, and this year's night before" bonfire bids fair to outdo the spectacular Neponset bonfires of past years.

The playground will be the scene of a three-day celebration this year, with a Mardi Gras, arranged by the council, taking place each evening, from Thursday through Saturday.

Beginning at 9 p. m. on the third the bonfire crowd which is expected to exceed the 75,000 record of other years will be entertained by various vaudeville troupes, including the Sheely brothers and sisters in diving stunts.

John T. McCarthy is chairman of the committee in charge and John J. Concannon, secretary. The Neponset bonfire draws thousands from all over Greater Boston and the South Shore and every effort is being made to draw a larger crowd than ever before this year.

Five barrels of oil and 40 gallons of gasoline will be thrown on the pile before the torch is applied. More than 1200 railroad ties have been used in making it and included in the "stuffing" are 9000 empty beer cases. For the first time a donkey engine was used in the building, J. Putnam Kelley supervised the construction.

French Diplomat to Arrive Thursday

Jules Henry, charge d'affaires of the French embassy at Washington, who is to be the Independence Day orator here, will arrive in Boston Thursday morning on the Federal Express, going from the Huntington ave. station to the Copley Plaza, where he will be the guest of Mayor Curley at an informal breakfast.

He will call at the mayor's office, City Hall, at about 9 30 a. m., and go from there to the governor's office at the State House, and from there to Gloucester to be the overnight guest of Congressman A Platt Andrew at Eastern Point.

In Old Boston—No. 297

Massachusetts Tercentenary, 1930

THIS IS A VIEW OF BROOKLINE taken 75 years ago. There was only one road into the town then from Boston, that over the Milldam. What is now the Boston & Albany, then the Worcester Railroad, ran a branch into the town, now the Newton circuit. This view was taken at the new Coolidge Corner. The eminence in the background is Corey Hill. A periodical of the time refers to Brookline as "remarkable for its high state of cultivation, elegant country seats and gardens and excellent roads." 5 ARE HURT IN TRUCK CRASH

Dr. Joseph Burt of Pond st, Jamaica Plain and his wife Mrs Barbara Burt were seriously injured today in a crash between a sedan and a five-ton gravel-laden truck at Hampshire and Columbia sts., Cambridgeport.

Mrs. Sophie Gillis of Rossmore rd., Jamaica Plain, Florence Downes, a sister of Mrs Burt, and J. Lawrence Burt of Orchard st Adams, a nephew of the doctor were cut and shaken up.

Dr. Burt was taken to Cambridge Relief hospital where he was found to have sustained a possible fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

His wife was taken to Cambridge City hospital and was found to have sustained a possible skull fracture.

2 Hurt as Trolley Hits "L" Structure

Two persons were injured and five others, three of them women were shaken up today when a Punker Hill car bound for Sullivan sq. split a switch at the junction of Main and Bunker Hill sts., Charlestown, and the rear of the car struck an Elevated upright.

The injured men, both of whom were removed to their homes in ambulances, were Francis J. Reardon, 50, of Bartlett st., Charlestown, and William J. Hughes of Elm st., Malden.

Both of these men complained of injuries about the legs and back. The others who were shaken up by the impact refused medical treatment.

According to the police the street car was in charge of Operator John W. Cullen of Salem st., Medford. He had left Sullivan square terminal three minutes before the accident occured.

James T. Toohig of Cambridge Dead

James T. Toohig, for 22 years caretaker of Longfellow Memorial Park, opposite the Longfellow house in Brattle st. Cambridge, died at his home, 39 Aberdeen av., in the Mt. Auburn district. He was installed as caretaker of the park in 1908 when it was presented by the poet's heirs to the city.

Toohig was a member of the A. O. H., Knights of St. Finbar, Owls, Elks, Irish National Foresters and other organizations.

5 FIRE BOATS FOR BOSTON

Boston within the next 10 months will possess the most modern fireboat in the entire world. This became known today when Mayor Curley approved plans for a vessel, which it is expected will cost $ 50,000. Bids will be called for within two months.

It will be built for heavy weather and will be able to put to sea to assist vessels afire or in distress.

Included in the equipment will be a motorized whaleboat for use in fighting bridge and wharf fires. Plans for the boat were made by Mayor Curley following the recent fire which destroyed the L st bridge.

CAPT. GRANT TO RETIRE JULY 15

Mayor Curley announced today that Capt. Robert E. Grant of the Hyde Park division will retire from the Boston police department on July 15.

Capt. Grant was chief of the Hyde Park police when that town became part of Boston January 1, 1912, and entered the city department as a captain, serving in that rank ever since.

The mayor also announced the retirement, July 3 of District Chief Hamilton A. McClay of the Boston fire department. He joined April 17 1896 and was made a district chief February 1, 1924.

Cambridge Cops Must Serve Sentence

Three former Cambridge police officers recently convicted of larceny of a quantity of gasoline from a Cambridge garage and sentenced to a year in the house of correction, must serve their jail terms.

The full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court today overruled their exceptions to the verdict of the Middlesex County jury and their plea for a new trial. The officers who now must serve the sentence imposed by Judge Fosdick are James P. McCarthy, John T. Burke and Frank G. Cotter, all formerly attached to the Central sq. police station in Cambridge.

Thirties showers the city with a real cool wave, forecast was read from Boston's weathering the office at four o'clock today.

July opened with a bang, the month of June just passed the all-time record of the local weather bureau. Forenoon temperatures ran higher than yesterday, but it was less "sticky" and more comfortable.

A shift in the wind from southwest to northwest is due tomorrow according to predictions.

The forecast: Local thunder showers this afternoon and tonight; cooler tonight. Wednesday, fair and cooler, probably preceded by shifting to northwest winds.

UPHOLDS AWARD OF $368,506

A verdict for $368,506 that a Rutland county jury gave the H. D. Watts Co. against the American Bonding & Mortgage Co., Inc. in connection with the building of Alden Park Manor, Brookline, now known as Longwood Towers was upheld today by the Supreme Court.

The Watts company claimed a contract with Chatham Inc. which by the latter was to pay the cost of building plus $260,000 paid to the Watts company.

It was alleged the American Bonding & Mortgage Co. interfered with this contract and awarded a contract for construction of the building to the Longacre Engineering & Construction Co., Inc.

Probe Complaint of Charles River Odor

Acting on complaints of Waltham residents, the State department of public health and the Metropolitan District Commission today began a joint investigation of conditions in the Charles river in that vicinity.

'THE BIG HOUSE' AT LOEW'S STATE IS ONE OF SEASON'S FINEST FILMS

PLENTY OF THRILLS ON BILL

By HARRIS MORGAN

IN "THE BIG HOUSE," at Loew's State, Cosmopolitan Productions has made one of the most exciting screen dramas of the entire season. This thrilling film of prison life and prison revolt has been kept strictly realistic, and is none the less exciting for that reason. Every scene carries the tang of reality and every sequence carries suspense and interest.

• • •

NOR HAVE THE PRODUCERS been niggardly in the matter of their cast. Chester Morris is at his best as Wally Beery, Robert Montgomery and George Marion Jr. are excellent in lesser parts as well as Lewis Stone, who does a notable job of acting as the warden of the jail. The story, too, is distinctly superior to those of most films. It contains romance as well as excitement, and for once this romance is decidedly not out of place. Direction and photography match plot and action, and the whole affair provides a pleasurable hour in the theater. Undoubtedly the ending is trite, but this essential grimness is well leveled by the comedy contributions of Wally Beery and Lewis Stone.

Leila Hyams

BIT BY BIT the scenes and sequences of this film are built. Leather is slip to the inevitable revolt, when the prison guards are seized and made put uniforms, marching out of prison uniforms, machine guns at the gate keep up a deadly chatter. Sight and sound intrude, to make each scene breathtaking, with excitement. Every bit of this is well done, admirably done, so that it seems more real than the cinema.

This is due to George Hill's fine and painstaking direction as much as to the well nigh flawless acting. Hill realizes the need of speed in the talkies, and has put fresh life into the other until the last fade-out, which a good deal better than these scenes in "The Big House" suggest the old days of the silent films when there was no dialogue and action was paramount.

• • •

THERE IS, of course, dialogue in "The Big House," and deft it is. There is never any chance allowed to slow down the action or to clog it with the trite verbosity of so many talkies. Everything that the characters say has some bearing on the plot, each one "pulls" terse, meaty, something in the march means something in the sum and total of the drama.

And speaking of the actors makes the most of them. Chester Morris is at the top of his form, and gives his best performance on stage or screen. Wallace Beery, as a huge comic, creates a convincing character. Robert Montgomery betters his best work of the past months. Messrs Nugent and Marion are always good actors, in "The Big House," they are better than ever. And Miss Hyams of course makes a charming heroine.

• • •

THOUGH IT DEALS with prison revolt, The Big House is in no sense a controversial preachment. Its first quality is that of entertainment, its second excitement. Even when that is made the spectators rise in their seats. It has been conscientiously done splendidly done. And it will please all audiences and displease none. And so, with due reason, it can be considered one of the season's finest films, even in a season remarkably good pictures.

Theatre Guild Cuts Saturday Night Prices

Theatre Guild will reduce its box office prices for Saturday night performances. This decision has been made by the guild's board of managers and accepted by Thomas R. Lothian, manager of the Hollis Street Theater, the Guild's Boston home. Thus, the $3 top price which prevails for all Saturday night performances will also prevail on Saturday nights.

The same arrangements have been made for the Guild seasons in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, where these are the cities where theater custom has always decreed the "tilted" scale on Saturday evenings.

RUSSIAN PRINCE TOILS ON SHIP; HOLLYWOOD BOUND

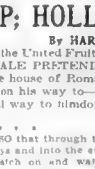
By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Aboard the United Fruit Liner San Gil (in tropic waters).

THE MALE PRETENDER to the old throne of Russia, a prince of the house of Romanoff, is aboard ship. His Imperial Highness is on his way to—Hollywood! But instead of traveling the royal way to himdom, he is traveling via the incognito route

• • •

SO MUCH SO that through the long ships days and into the evening with watch on and watch off he is engaged in the very plebeian task of working his way by scrubbing decks, polishing brass and doing the thousand and one things that have been dished out to keep these ships as neat, day in, day out. Prince Alexander He is buried on the ship's crew list under a fairly unsuspicious name. He's down officially as "A. Romanoff." A cub reporter would smell a story hidden therein, or at least would suspect there might be a good yarn in it



We, being of the tribe, with possibly a fair nose for news, used it. And the prince has just been confabbing with us, placing in our reportorial palm a nicely engraved card bearing this:

"Prince Alexander Bariatinsky Youreveisk-y Romanoff."

There they are—staring right this moment up at us from the couch in our stateroom—some of the finest names of the Russ a that was! We have laid the card by to prevent our re-selling the various names, and at once [illegible] a chief [illegible] the prince for a [illegible]

When we mentioned this resemblance to the Prince he laughed in reply.

"Why not? Isn't he a blood relative of mine?"

"Honorable" blood we queried

"Certainly; as a matter of fact I am related in most of the crowned houses of Europe," he answered

• • •

But to return to the beginning finding Alexander Stahlend in the cockpit of a fruit liner.

Our approach was subtle, for we felt a Romanoff might prove touchy about his identity. So, as happened that a young Swede in the crew was looky as much like Greta Garbo as does the Prince was modeling a barcentine on the forward deck. We climbed down from the deck gangway and stood watching the sweep up of the tiny square-rigged sail.

Introduced myself. The sailor with the model announced himself as Olof Gaulin, of Haparanda, and on the Baltic coast of Sweden. We chatted, and I inquired if Romanoff was off duty. "Yes, would the model find him" Yes" So the Prince, in shore liberalie of overalls rolled up to the shins, undershirt, and bare feet came forth. He also proved to be interested in the sea. Thus we got into conversation at least of it developed some interesting narrative.

• • •

The Prince is tall well knit physically, with light hair and eyes. He has grown a fine blonde moustache. He is up at 5:30 every morning save when he has the early watch. He gets a cup of coffee, and then starts in his routine

"I don't mind it," he says. "It is healthy, and it is honest. I am not ashamed that I have to work for a living. You see the revolution in Russia took all we had; we had to fly the country, and now I am making my own way in th. world."

Since that meeting and his subsequent visit here, I have watched him at his labor. His white skin is now rosy red with the sunburn; his hands are calloused. When holy-stoning the deck he works away like a Trojan at polishing the brass he has [illegible] as good stager. Whatever he does he does with a will I have found, by inquiry, that the officers from Capt. William J Mathes (of Wollaston and as fine a skipper as ever I met) down regard him as efficient, quiet and far above the intelligence of the ordinary seamen. And why not this last point; for the Prince has lent me private papers that prove him a graduate a mo.2 other institutions of learning, of Magdalen College at Oxford, in England. I find he talks history, politics, science, what not, with equal fluency and faithfulness to fact

We are already writing beyond the limits of our space, so we are going to down the rest of this story of a Russian Prince who is Hollywood-bound in the hope of recouping fallen fortunes out of the movies. His documents show he has hobnobbed with society in Europe and this country, one of the papers we have before us is a [illegible] indorsement from Ad[illegible] Lenox Ave., 65th st., Boston, residing in part as follows:

"The undersigned has been furnished with certain facts and documentary evidence that convinces him that the bearer of this letter is Prince Alexander Bariatinsky Yourievsky Romanoff, the grandson of the late Czar, Alexander II of Russia."

CRIME FILM IS SCOLLAY HIT

William Powell in "Shadow of the Law" is the new week's film feature at the Scollay. This thrilling drama fast in its tempo, is easily Mr. Powell's best offering to date, giving him every opportunity to display his natural talent. The action is fast, melodramatic and replete with the necessary love scenes. Assisting Mr. Powell are Natalie Moorhead and Marian Shilling

Seven acts of vaudeville are presented on the stage of the Scollay, headed by Eddie Stanley and his Personality Boys in some new foolishness. Ellen Harvey is a sensation on the tight wire, and Rogers and Donnelly, in their presentation of "The Count," are genuinely amusing. Dengon and Cannefax score in their skit, as does Yvonne Stella and company in "Dancers From Paris." The Gould Girls are seen in a new series of numbers, including "Cops," "In the Gym" and "Dainies."

NEWS, VIEWS AND GOSSIP OF SOCIETY IN AND ABOUT GREATER BOSTON

Miss Merrill Makes Bow July 12

Reception Will Be Conducted at The Corners Estate in Berkshires

THE DEBUT OF MISS Margery Pepperil Merrill, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George Grenville Merrill, of Stockbridge, will take place July 12 at The Corners, the Bishop Darlington villa which the Merrills are occupying for the season. It will be an afternoon reception and many out-of-town guests will motor up to the Berkshires for the occasion.

MISS MERRILL IS COMPLETING her course at the Barrington school, Great Barrington, this month. She is well known in society and is the sister of Miss Natalie Bayard Merrill, who was introduced to society by her aunt, Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown. Two other aunts are Baronesa Romain d' Oxnov and Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry. She is also a cousin of J. Nicholas Brown, whose engagement to Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving of Baltimore has just been announced. The wedding of Mr. Brown and Miss Kinsolving will take place in October.

Picturesque Scene as Catherine Robb Weds Peter Whyte

JUST AN IDEAL SETTING for a wedding were the gardens of Mrs. Russell Robb's charming country home at Concord, when her daughter, Miss Catherine, was married to Peter Whyte of Banff, Alberta, yesterday afternoon. The bride had no attendants and they were not missed in the picture which was so sweetly simple. The bridal couple stood under a large apple tree to take their sacred vows, alone with the clergyman, their families and friends standing near against a background of beautiful flowers, it was very impressive. After the ceremony an informal reception was held and refreshments served in a large marquee at one end of the garden.

MRS. WHYTE (THE BRIDE) wore a lovely silk net gown with fine thread tracery and her veil was of tulle with garland of orange blossoms. She carried a garden bouquet of pink roses, blue delphinium and babies breath. Such a dainty little bride! A string trio played softly Lohengrin's wedding march. Among the guests we saw Mrs. Friedman Buttrick, distinguished in all white, which we note she wears a good deal this season; her daughter, Miss Mary Buttrick, in a green and black print with large hat, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Buttrick, in blue and pink ensemble.

Frances Fairchild and Herbert Shaw Wed This Month

THE WEDDING OF MISS Frances Fairchild, daughter of the late Mr. John C. Fairchild and Mrs. Arthur L. Little, of Boston and New York, to Mr. Herbert Bramwell Shaw, of Boston, is to take place some time in July. Mr. Shaw and his bride will go to Ireland on their wedding trip and will spend some time in the hunting country.

AT THE HOME OF MRS. William H. Brown a series of six talks on current events will take place Tuesday mornings from July 8 to Aug. 12. Mrs. Alanson Bigelow and Mrs. Charles White are assisting Mrs. Brown as patronesses.

MRS. T. FREDERIC STODdard and her sister, Mrs. Ralph Menard, have sent out 500 invitations to a tea to be given on Tuesday afternoon in the garden of Mrs. Stoddard's home in Cohasset.

AT THE STUDIO OF MR. Samuel Vaughan, of Beverly Farms, the eighth season of manual training classes for boys and girls will take place from June until September. Mr. Jesse A. Putelle is the instructor.

Wed in Garden Ceremony at Concord

MR. AND MRS. PETER WHYTE (Catherine Robb), daughter of Mrs. Russell Robb of Concord, whose marriage took place yesterday in the garden of her mother's home. Following their wedding trip Mr. Whyte and his bride will make their home at Banff, Alberta.

John W. Livermore Is Engaged to Miss Cornelia Brady Kip

HARVARD CLASSMATES OF Mr. John Walton Livermore of New York are interested in the announcement of his engagement to Miss Cornelia Brady Kip, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William V. R. Kip of Park ave., New York. Miss Kip is a member of the Junior League of New York, attended Miss Chapin's school, and also studied in Paris. She was introduced to society at a large dinner at Sherry's in 1928. Mr. Livermore is the son of Mrs. Channing W. Hare of New York and the late John R. Livermore. He is a member of the Knickerbocker and Harvard clubs.

INDEPENDENCE DAY WILL be celebrated at the Cohasset Yacht Club with a varied program. In the morning there will be water sports for the children and there will be several different contests open for the younger children. In the evening there will be fireworks at Bassom's Beach, which will be followed by a dance at the yacht club for members and their guests. The regular Saturday night dances have commenced for the season and the first one had as hostesses Mrs. James Dean and Mrs. Theodore W. Little.

Foreign War Vets Plan Installation

Plans for the installation of the recently elected officers of the Department of Massachusetts, V. F. W., and Ladies' Auxiliary, will be completed Wednesday night at a meeting of the special committee in charge at room 160 A, State House.

Dr. Julian D. Lucas, Roxbury and Brookline physician, was chosen as department commander. Likewise Mrs. Irene Hurley of Lynn was chosen head of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Maj. John O'Brien of Malden, Roxbury Post is chairman of the installation committee, with Henry V. O'Day of Brookline, secretary.

Charlestown Girl Bride of Fireman

A pretty wedding took place in St. Francis de Sales Church, Charlestown, yesterday when Miss Katherine M. Kinsella of Cross st., Charlestown, and Charles J. Mc-Granachan of Dorchester, a member of Ladder 1 of the Boston fire department, were married by the Rev. Mark Driscoll, the pastor, who was assisted by the nuptial mass which followed.

Miss Margaret M. Quirk was bridesmaid and John McGranachan was best man. A reception followed in Memorial Hall, Charlestown, where a wedding breakfast was served. The couple will reside at 89 Prince ave., Dorchester.

Presentation Gowns Marked by Originality

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American

Paris, July 1.

EVERY YEAR the ingenuity of the leading couturiers is taxed to create frocks for the royal courts at Buckingham Palace that will be of charm and originality, while yet subscribing to the rigid requirements laid down by the lord chamberlain for these ceremonies.

And each year the seeming impossible is achieved in the form of lovely court frocks that appear to be more suitable for story-book princesses than women of this modern age, even if they are planning to make their obeisance before their Britannic Majesties.

Some of the really patriotic women prove their patriotism on having their presentation gowns made in London; many others fly across the Channel and consult with their favorite couturiers. Worth is one of the leading houses for these frocks, and this year has been especially in demand, particularly by the wives of members of the corps diplomatique.

Just to show you how very lovely a presentation gown can be, even if it is worn with a train and the archaic three-feather head-dress, we have secured a sketch of the gown made by Worth for Mme. Dore Gulbenkian, wife of the Persian ambassador in London.

It is of pale blue marquisette with an all-over design of silver thread. The regulation train is of blue velvet embroidered in diamante and is lined with silver tissue. The shoulder straps are also of diamante.

To get back to the realm of the practical, we show you a dero dress of dark blue heavy crepe de chine with a blouse of printed crepe in three shades of lighter blue. Wide scallops edge the flaring over-sleeves and the tunic, which forms the upper part of the skirt. The underski is laid in light box-pleats. This is a Lenief model and is good for either twn or country use.

Dainty English Quality Biscuits

Oven-fresh, now at your store

THE English call them "biscuits." We call them "little cakes." They are crisp dainties made of fine ingredients, flavored with chocolate, honey or the nectars of fruits, and filled with creams of delicate richness.

Baked in English ovens, according to recipes handed down from English father to son, English Quality Biscuits are now made right here in America by Weston. You may buy them fresh at your store for but a trifle more than you have been paying for the ordinary "little cakes" or crackers, and for much less than you pay for imported biscuits.

There is A Selected Assortment in the smart red and blue package. A smaller package contains all of one kind—the particular "biscuit" you may favor most. They also are available in bulk. Weston Biscuit Corporation, Toronto, New York, Boston.

MISS HARD-BOILED by Jane Dixon

Wife of "Baggy Pants" in Next Chair Tells of Saving for Trip

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Alphonse Courbet, fashion expert, is taking two of his most beautiful models from New York to Paris on the Glory de France. One, Greta Tosak, is an inveterate gold-digger The other, Raquel Rojot, is an exotic beauty, half-Spanish, and half-American, who has created a sensation in New York. She came originally from a desert town in Arizona. She had borrowed money from a young engineer, Jack Farrell, to get to New York. Now a woman in the adjoining deck-chair on the ship has struck up a conversation with her.

CHAPTER 30

Raquel knew the significance of the motherly woman's stare.

She surprised it often on people's faces when they saw her closely for the first time. It annoyed her almost as often as it thrilled her, that stare of open-mouthed amazement, unbelief.

"I come from a part of the country where there is much sunshine, though mostly it is too hot for comfort," she said cordially.

Why had she suggested to this woman where she came from? That motherly face with the rosy cheeks and the kind eyes was a bid for confidence. Like a nice pitcher with fat sides into which one might pour all the secrets of the universe and still it would not be filled nor spill a drop of them.

"Do you?" The woman was at ease again. "We come from Minnesota, Father and I. My husband's chair is right next to this one."

The wife of the man with the baggy pants. The one Greta had fooled about the emerald.

"Do you?" Raquel asked stupidly.

"Yes," proudly, as if coming from Minnesota were a special mark of distinction bestowed by Providence. "From St. Paul. It's pretty cold up our way sometimes. But Father and I don't mind it. We're used to it. It's healthy for the children, too. They never had colds when they were babies, and now that they're grown up, they're as hardy as can be. I have four children, two boys and two girls."

"Baggy's" Wife
From Minnesota

Her face softened. Her voice was like a benediction.

"You—left them at home?" Raquel wanted to give the motherly woman that which she craved most, a chance to talk of her children.

"Oh mercy, yes. They are grown men and women now, with children of their own. I have five grandchildren." She was like a mother hen clucking in its boast of its brood.

Raquel's smile urged her to go on.

"You see, this is the first time father and I have left the children, for any length of time. We've taken several trips on the Great Lakes—they have fine big boats on the Great Lakes, you know—and father goes to Chicago five or six times a year. But we've been on the ocean before."

"I've never been on it either," Raquel said, as one who confides a delightful secret.

"Haven't you?" wonderingly. "My, you look as though you'd been everywhere. Really I do."

"Foreign look, haven't I?"

"Maybe that's it. But it's coming, Father and I have been planning on this trip for a long time. Kind of saving up over it. I thought we ought to use what we'd saved to buy a little house for Elsie—she's our youngest girl and she didn't marry very well—but father said, 'No, she made her bed and she'll have to lie in it.' We didn't want her to marry—the man she did."

"Girls like their own way, don't they," said Raquel.

The Beauty Box
—By HELEN FOLLETT—

The woman who has to work thinks how heavenly it would be to stay in bed in the morning. She doesn't realize that she should be grateful for the old job that kicks her out, gets her into the fresh air when the morning is young, livens up her thoughts, keeps her on her toes. And as time tells, starts her earlier than workers. Boredom is more tiresome than activity. A healthy activity of will has a stimulating effect upon the blood streams, the muscles, the digestive organs and the mind.

The whites of an egg, beaten and mixed with almond meal to form a paste the consistency of whipped cream, makes an excellent face pack. The egg acts as an astringent to an oily and wrinkled skin surface, the meal imparts a delicious softness to the epidermis. Let remain on until it begins to dry and flake. Lave with tepid water, dry and give a five-minute message with a heavy cream. The beauty supplement comes out of her pack as fresh as a daisy.

By drinking milk, eating one to two eggs a day and taking orange juice regularly the dentist's bill can be cut down considerably. These foods supply tooth-building material. They are rich in vitamines that the digestive organs are grateful for.

So that was the money Greta was going to use to "throw a party, a wow," in Paris. Money this motherly woman with the kind eyes had saved. Pinching little economies. Self-denials. Greta would squander, on senseless extravagance, what this woman's Elsie might have spent on bare comfort. Because Baggy Pants was a fool. An amorous old man, trying to recapture the buds of youth when, if he should have been finding content in the harvest of the years.

"I'll bet mother had done most of the saving," Raquel decided. "Those trips Baggy Pants made to Chicago—"

She looked at the woman gravely. She wanted what she was going to say to register definitely.

"I hope you are going to make the most of the trip," she said. "Women are always the caretakers. My mother was—is—that way. It should not be. Men do not like it. Inside themselves they laugh at us. A pretty gown, a beautiful hat. They are more than—than—saving."

Saving Man
It Is His Nature

The woman looked at Raquel as if she had uttered sacrilege.

"With some men, maybe," she said "But Father is different. He is all for his family. A saving man. It is his nature."

Raquel closed her lips tight. To keep them from burbling the things she felt. It was a duty to tell this woman.

What was the use? The woman would only shake her head. She would sow unhappiness where now there was faith and pride. The destruction would be with-out profit. It was too late. Too late for the man to tear down a false god, to build a true god in his place.

"I think I'll go down and mix up Elsie's medicine," said the woman. "She always likes a little dose of iron and wine about this time. It builds up his blood."

"I hope I'll see you again."

"Oh, indeed, I'd have been here before, but father thought that I should stay in the room. He was afraid I'd get seasick. He said if I moved in a chair I'd even know I was on a boat. If he comes in and finds me gone, he won't know what to make of it."

"The old fox," thought Raquel. "He's up to mischief. Got mother to stay out of sight so he could prowl with the Greta. Well, let her hug plenty of money mother doesn't know about—for his own pleasure. I wish Greta had got enough money for an emerald as big as a house. I wish she'd taken every cent he had."

For the first time the loan she had not paid, the money she owed Farrell, rated easy on her mind. Men. They paid only when they could get. Or thought they could get. Then they were forced into a corner, as "Baggy Pants" had been when Greta threatened to call the purser and expose the old fox in sheep's clothing for what he was.

Which was right. Greta rifled their pockets and laughed. What she stole was so much salvage.

"I should have taken some thing from Johnson," she told herself. "I could have found an excuse. He'll only give it to another Lily. I ought to have asked him for something, as much as I could get, and left it for Lucy. And for little Jose."

A mist blurred the bright sunshine, the moving figures on the deck. The mist of tears. By a sheer effort of will, she dried them at their fonts

The small man with the horn-rimmed spectacles and the armfuls of books at her right—the one Greta called "the professor" —was coughing again

She wished he would find some way to check his perpetual, irritating cough

The Owl Talks
Sea Gets in Throat

"Excuse me," he said, and gazed at her solemnly, like an owl in the daylight. "This sea air is heavy. It seems to get at my throat."

Raquel recurned the gaze. Annoyance flickered in her eyes. The professor was too much inpack. "The egg acts as an astringent to an oily and wrinkled skin surface, the meal imparts a delicious softness to the epidermis. Let remain on until it begins to dry and flake. Lave with tepid water, dry and give a five-minute message with a heavy cream. The beauty supplement comes out of her pack as fresh as a daisy.

Smart Beach Togs for Swim and Sun
By ANN ARDEN

ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.

AT LEAST on the beach this summer there is a sporting chance of equivocation on the wet and dry issue! One does not go down to the sea merely to swim or cheerfully popularly to sun bathe. One sallies forth with the pleasurable feeling that it is possible to do both should the urge be such.

* * *

CONVERTIBLE clothes seem more and more to attract fashionable fancy. This summer, toys for the beach are no exception The best bets on the sands of the sea are those suits and costumes that cleverly serve more than one purpose Designers have taxed their ingenuity to perform miracles of costuming that are at once casual, practical and decidedly picturesque

* * *

TROUSERS and shorts, as everyone knows by now, lend a spirited boyishness to the beach scene —even bathing suits are trimly diamnshed to yield to the feminine touch. The bracelet neck suit, the type with full shorts in two-piece effect and the classic one-piece model are the favorites by popular choice The tunic suit is usually worn by older women.

Model From Jordan Marsh Co
Staff Photo.—Boston Evening American

THE SUIT pictured combines boyish and feminine attributes. Its color is out of the ordinary, a bright purple, the tunic of silk, be-sprinkled with tiny white dots in swirling design, buttoning down the front with white bone buttons, the skirt portion circular at sides. The belt, button-holes and geometric seamings are piped in white. The tunic may be slipped off, revealing a low backed jersey swim suit, with cuffs on its trousers of the dotted silk. A white canvas rubber turban is worn, and rubber beach shoes of black and white, with heels.

THE GAY oblongs of toweling shown this season are useful as well as ornamental, as they may serve as beach rug or moisture absorbing robe.

How to Keep Well -:- By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

The Role Your Skin Plays in Health

AS LONG as life lasts the different parts of the body have their work to perform. The skin plays an active and important part in the upkeep of our human machine, the body.

The body is composed of solid and fluid materials, besides certain other things. The water contained in the body is largely in excess over the solid materials. So you should weigh one hundred pounds and find seventy of them should be water.

A good deal of the water is thrown off from the body in perspiration and many of the waste products of the body are carried off with it. Some of the wastes are removed by the urine through the kidneys.

The skin serves a double purpose. It is the protective covering of the body, and through its tiny pores great quantities of waste escape from the body. The skin must be kept very clean in order that it may do its work thoroughly and well. It needs to be bathed every day, in warm weather especially

The intestine also carry off the waste of the body, so here are three sources of elimination of waste products. The skin, the kidneys and the intestines must be kept in splendid working condition if we are to have good health

Knowing what large quantities of liquid are thrown off from the body every day, you can see how necessary it is to drink plenty of water. Many people never seem to think of this. Every adult and child should take at least a quart of water every day to keep in good condition. The kidneys and intestines must be flushed out in this way.

Some persons perspire a great deal, and others very little. Per-sons who does not perspire freely, may be from every portion of the body. Or the sweating may be confined to some one part as under the armpits, the palms of the feet, or some other single portion. In such cases, the annoying, especially if there is an offensive odor with the perspiration. There are remedies such as odorizing powders.

Frequent bathing with warm water and soap, followed by the use of cold water, will be found refreshing in perspiring and aching feet. Continual preparation of the feet causes the skin to soften and fissures and cracks result. In extreme cases of this kind a dusting powder of stearate of zinc may be helpful. Plain rice powder is good also. Colonge, and also a weak preparation of quinine, are good local applications

If the excessive perspiration is confined to the feet try the following: Give your feet daily baths in cool water and dry them thoroughly. Once a day rub with a solution of 10 per cent boric acid in alcohol. Immediately after this, having dried the feet, apply a 10 per cent solution or 1-1000 solution of formalin, or 1-1000 solution of permanganate of potash.

By paying heed to all these details and attention to the right diet your health will be much improved. With good health should come perspiration

Problems of the Heart and Home
—By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Girl, "Afraid of Her Father," Asks Advice on Leaving Home

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 17 years old and in high school. Ever since I can remember I never had much fun. My father is 'terrible.' He never lets me go out nights on the least excuse Not to my girl friends house that is around the corner

I am afraid to be caught talking to any boys for fear I'll get "bawled out." Recently I went out walking, around my own home with my girl friend. I did not get in until 9:20 and was paying a call in the mouth for "being out so late." Miss Fairfax, I live in a "hell." I've deadly afraid of my father He "picks" on me at the least excuse If I knew of any place I could go I'd run away in a minute I'd like to work for the summer, but am "scared blue" my father won't let me. I am getting so I cry at the least thing and am getting terribly nervous and afraid Please help me, Miss Fairfax. Sometimes I think I'll go crazy. Recently I told my grandmother I was going to run away. She and I would kill her if I did. Please answer as soon as you can or I will have to kill her by running away

GOING CRAZY.

Dear "Going Crazy"—First thing let me get the idea out of your head that you are "going crazy," because nobody who can write such a clear and intelligent letter is in danger of that. I realize that you must be very unhappy, and that father is extremely unreasonable. Any girl of 17 is justified in having freedom and friends outside of her home Are you planning on taking a position when you finish school? As soon as you are 18 or even a little independent financially, you will be able to take a stand for your rights You are young, and in the meantime, be as quiet as you can and try not to do things that irritate him.

Refuses Goodnight Kiss

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 19 years old and have been going with a girl who is now 16. We used to have great times together, but now she won't even let me because she seems glad to have me touch her. I think she likes me around and always tells me to come over any time I want. However, she won't let me kiss her goodnight any more. Please answer me.

C. J. O.

Dear C. J. O.: You ought to be glad that your friend displays these signs of modesty and reserve, at this time in girls today. She has evidently just come to a realization of herself and her womanhood, and I think she must be very sweet. Please respect her desires, and continue to be her very good friend.

Parents Quarrel

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 15 and I have a sister 10 and a little brother of 3. It is a pretty good little family except for the fact that my mother and father are always quarreling. The subjects of these quarrels are not worth mentioning. They are constantly giving each other hints of getting a divorce. I've done all I can. I've spoken to them both but without avail, and they tell the younger children that they are going away and never coming back. What can I do?

M. R.

Dear M. R.—I think you are a very brave little girl to try and make peace between your parents. It's too bad they can't get along for the sake of you and your brother and sister. But don't wear yourself out trying to fix things up between them. Probably your little brother and sister feel things as keenly as you do, and you can make up their loss by being a real, big sister and comforting and help-ing them all you can.

Religious Difference

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

Am writing you this letter to see if you can help me. I am 23 years old and have been going with a fellow 21 since last January. The trouble is I like him but my mother don't because he is different in religion. I know he likes me for he said he didn't care what religion I was. What shall I do?

PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled: The same religious belief is no guarantee that you can be friends with a person After all, religious barriers are not as strong as they used to be and if you and your friend can settle the matter between you, I think you are the ones to be considered

Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers on troublesome questions of love, marriage and the home. Write on one side of the paper only.

The Marry-Go-Round
By HELEN ROWLAND

Husbands—and Others

Women are said to be more jealous than men. Yet no woman hates an "It" girl as the average man hates a crooning tenor.

A man may promise to love you when you have "silver threads among the gold," but, somehow, he can never visualize you with a triple chin and still think of you as the romance of his future.

* * *

If a faithless husband's love is valued at $200,000 in an alienation suit, it makes you positively DIZZY to think what your devoted nonskidding husband's affections would be worth in cold cash.

Woman will never be man's "equal" until she is able to look as unalluring in a bathing suit as the average man does and still to think of herself as fatally fascinating.

* * *

Some women are born with "It," a few manage to acquire "It"—but most of them appear to think that "It" is merely a matter of rubbing on a little more lipstick and displaying a few more vertebrae.

Next to a woman on a fishing trip, probably nothing is more useless and superfluous than a man around the house on Monday mornings and cleaning days.

* * *

Some men and women are doomed to unhappiness in this life because, no matter how often they love or marry, their taste runs true to type—and the type is always a butterfly or a false alarm.

When a woman begins counting her blessings, funny how seldom she stops to think of her husband as one of them

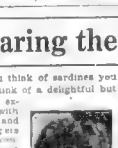
Snaring the Coy Sardine

When you think of sardines you naturally think of a delightful but coy morsel extracted with difficulty and the tips of fingers from a can. Their toward usually discourages all but the most ardent admirers. But once they are enticed into the open, what a treat! In addition to the plain lemon, mustard or tomato sauce dressing, you will find the sardine thoroughly at home in gayer surroundings. There is the curried dish to give a guest who is fond of hot dishes, the sardine Newburg to serve for party suppers and the ever-faithful spaghetti makes an unusual partner to this genial fish For a light evening meal in hot weather try three or four sardines on a slice of toast, served with a cup of fragrant tea.



Martha Lee

Sardines promote digestion and thus add to the value of other foods. Every particle is digestible, the fish being practically boneless and sealeless, and they are ready to serve immediately, needing no cooking. There is no fish which can be served in such an infinite variety of ways.

For something unusual I recommend the following.

CURRIED SARDINES

Drain the oil from two 3¼-ounce cans of sardines into a small skillet. Arrange sardines in a shallow baking dish. Mix 1½ tsp of curry powder and 2 tsp. cornstarch to a paste with 6 tbsp. water. Add 6 tbsp cream and add slowly to the hot oil, cooking until creamy. Season to taste with salt. Pour over the sardines and heat to boiling in a hot oven. Serve with toast points. This recipe will serve four as a main dish and requires no advice.

BAKED SPAGHETTI WITH SARDINES

Drain oil from one 3¼-ounce can of sardines into a skillet, add ¾ cup water and the boned, skinned and mashed sardines. Cook three minutes. Meanwhile, cook and drain one-half package of spaghetti. Arrange alternate layers of the spaghetti and sauce in a buttered baking dish, cover with crumbs and bake 30 minutes. Serves Four.

SARDINE NEWBURG

Make a cream sauce of two tbsp. butter, 2 tbsp. flour, 2 cups light cream, 1 tbsp lemon juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Add 1 slightly-beaten egg yolk. Add 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and 2 4-ounce cans of boneless, skinless sardines broken in rather large pieces. Heat and serve on thin slices of toast. Serves six.

Of course, there are many ways of using sardines as sandwich fillings, patties, salads, etc. If you would like more hints on how to serve these highly nutritious and tasty fish, just drop me a line at 3 Winthrop sq., Boston, and I'll gladly send them to you by return mail.

Fish Chowder

This is the recipe, broadcasted by Martha Lee yesterday, of the fish chowder made by the famous chef of a famous hotel.

FISH CHOWDER FOR SIX

Cut a pound of codfish or haddock in slices about ½ inch square, free from skin and bones and boil five minutes.

Put the bones of the fish in a casserole and add three quarts of water—and one tablespoon of salt. Boil for 15 minutes and strain. Cut two pounds of potatoes in ½-inch squares and boil in fish stock until soft.

Saute ¼ pound of salt pork diced small until golden brown, add one large chopped onion; when both cooked, add to stock with pinch of white pepper. Place all ingredients together with one pint of boiling hot cream, season if necessary, with salt and pepper.

RED CHOCOLATE CAKE

5 tbsps. melted fat.
1 egg
1 cup sugar.
1½ cups flour.
1 tsp. soda.
1 cup sour milk
1 tsp. vanilla.

Stir cocoa into melted fat, add beaten egg. Sift sugar, flour and soda and add alternately with sour milk. Add vanilla and beat well. Bake at 350 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Equally good as layer cake, cup cakes or in loaf

TOMATO SALAD THAT'S NEW

"I've found a prize!" announced Mother Mine this morning—"a tomato salad that will look 'different' and taste 'different,' and I do hope you'll enjoy it as much as I did the day Mrs. Jones served it yesterday. Here's the recipe."

TOMATO PIQUANT SALAD

6 medium sized tomatoes.
½ lb. American cheese
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
Cover tomatoes with boiling water for one moment. Peel. Chill in ice box. With very sharp knife, slice off stem end. Scoop out top almost to the bottom, being careful not to cut through the skin of bottom. In the slices thus left very thin slices of American cheese. Arrange these tomatoes on crisp lettuce and sprinkle with the parsley. Serve with a French dressing made with 1 tsp. of salt, 1 tsp. sugar, ½ tsp paprika, 3 tbsps. pure vinegar, ⅔ c. pure olive oil. Mix salt, sugar and paprika. Add vinegar and oil and beat thoroughly, or put all the ingredients in a glass jar and shake well. One-half tsp. mustard and ¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce, ½ tsp. onion juice and 2 drops of tobasco sauce may be added for additional flavor.

Another delicious stuffing for tomatoes is made of tuna fish, mayonnaise and chopped sweet pickles Garnish with mayonnaise and a few salted almonds if convenient.

Our Canning Column

To cold pack pineapple, prepare for the cans as usual, make a syrup of equal amounts of sugar and water and boil for a few minutes. Set aside until cold. Then pack the cans with pineapple and fill full of syrup. Cold pack for 30 minutes.

Some Points on Etiquette
—By MRS. BEECKMAN—

Wedding Attendants

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN.

Will you please be so kind as to tell me who is right in this case? C is getting married soon and wants dress suits for the occasion. The attendants of ushers haven't any and must hire them for the event. Who pays the expense for the hire of the suits?

A claims that C stands all expenses, while B states that the individual pays for his suit. L. L.

B is right. Each wedding attendant, whether an attendant of the bride or of the bride, is expected to furnish his or her own attire that is to be worn at the wedding

"Senior" and "Junior"

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

My father's name is Mr. Joseph Wynans, senior, and my name is Joseph Wynans, junior. A son was born to us recently. If we call him Joseph, after me, he will be a "junior" or a "master"? I think he will not become "junior" until he reaches the age of 21, and then I will be his "senior" and he will be my "junior." Is this right?

READER.

Your son is Joseph Wynans third Or Joseph Wynans 3rd. Or Joseph Wynans III. Whichever way you wish to write it. That is, if your father is living, and I take it that he is. The master is his title—that is, he is now Master Joseph Wynans 3d, and will be until he is old enough to be called Mr.. He will be "third" as long as your father lives, and then, when your father is not living, you become Joseph Wynans, and your son becomes Joseph Wynans, Jr.

Offering One's Hand

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

1. Should girls between the ages of 16 and 21 have "Miss" engraved on their cards?

2. Should a young man, when introduced to a young lady, shake hands?

VIRGINIA.

1. Yes.

2. No. The man waits for the woman, to whom he is being presented, to offer her hand first.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers).

EVENING AMERICAN MARKETS

New York Stocks | News of Street

NEW LOWS FOR DAY SET IN LAST HOUR

New York, July 1—Railroads recently the weakest group on the big list, led in further recovery of share prices on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Many new lows for the day were set in the last hour

LEADERS ARE HOPEFUL

The financial community as a whole, however, entered the second half of the year somewhat hopeful. While opinion as to the extent of the probable recovery during the next six months varies widely, there is little doubt that business trends will turn upward as they normally do from August to december.

Nevertheless, the slack summer period is still young, and the second quarter earnings statements must be absorbed. The first in August was a preliminary statement from du Pont, estimating net at $1.31 against $1.44 in 1929 and $1.40 in 1928. This was lower than expected.

The influence of the July interest and dividend money was seen in the stock market today, when a score or more of the best known industrial and utility favorites moved ahead to the best levels in the current recovery movement. Billion dollars in payments to security holders will be made within the next five days and a flood of stock market has felt the effects of demand generated by this generous fund.

The best buying of the day appeared in the dividend payers in all groups. Confidence in the situation has been stimulated by the favorable developments in important sections of American industry and the readiness of industrial heads to expand their manufacturing capacities. Atchison was a brilliant leader in the rail group along with New York Central.

American Can, United States Steel, General Electric and other industrial favorites, without displaying any unusual brilliance were able to register slightly better than the highest prices recorded since last Thursday, when the rally from the bottom began.

BIG BLOCKS TAKEN

A number of 10,000-share blocks of the popular stocks were taken over, reflecting in part the short covering of big professionals. United States Steel completed a 15-point rally from the low of last week. The bulls took their cue from a brisk rally in the grain market.

Although rail earnings for May, with practically all reports now in, average but little more than those of April, and estimates of June are not very hopeful, most talk now is of gives expect substantial improvement during the next six months.

Merchandising shares were also in demand, an indication of the comparatively satisfactory volume of retail trade was indicated by Montgomery Ward's June sales report showing a gain of 9.3 per cent over June of last year. National Dallas Hess reported a drop of nearly 6 per cent, but the company has been having unusual difficulties.

Trading showed some acceleration over yesterday but was still relatively dull.

The announcement of Harvey Fisk & Sons that it would abandon carrying marginal accounts was regarded at least a reflection of the change in speculative sentiment, but Wall Street was inclined to interpret it permitted an indication that this house had decided to specialize in an individual type of business, rather than a precedent likely to be widely followed. Call money again rose to 3 per cent, reflecting withdrawals estimated at about $100,000,000, for the midyear settlements and holiday cash requirements.

Such issues as Woolworth, Macy, Safeway, Kroger, Bethlehem, American Tobacco B, International Business Machines and Loews gained 2 to 4 points, and such wide movers as Case and Ingersoll Rand sold up several points. U. S. Steel opened off about a point, rallied and sold up nearly 2 net, and then drifted downward again in the afternoon. American Can and several other pivotal shares featured a similar course.

Renewed weakness in the utilities particularly American Telephone and North America, prompted general selling late in today, forcing industrial leaders mostly under the previous close. Rails retained a considerable part of their sharp advance.

The close was heavy.

UNITED FRUIT EARNINGS UP

United Fruit Co. earned in the first half of 1930 net profits after depreciation, but before taxes, approximately $10,300,000. The equivalent of $4.0 a share on 2,525,000 shares of stock. This compared with a total of $9,340,000 for United Fruit Co. and Cuyamel Fruit Co. combined earnings for the first half of 1929

Cash balances at June 30 1- $21,000,000, compared with the balance of $21,000,000 at the end of the same period last year. In addition to cash, consisting with the inventory of approximately $7,000,000

Volume of fruit sales has been very satisfactory, although price level did not quite equal that of a year ago. Rigid economy and improvements in cultivation, handling and distributing methods have resulted in low unit costs which, it is expected, can be maintained and improved upon.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

Sales today (AP) 1,500,000 shares. Yesterday, 1,810,000. Week ago, 1,810,000. Year ago, 1,600,000. 1930 to date, 402,240,800. 1929 to date, 1,020,200,200. 1928 to date, 1,250,000,000.

BANKING POWER OF BOSTON IS VERY GREAT

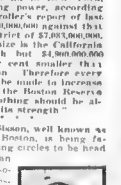
By FRANK H. MELOON

Note what Chairman Frederic H. Curtiss of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston has to say about the district banking power:

"I have had some studies made of the banking power of the different federal reserve districts. By banking power, I mean the total resources of the national banks, state banks and savings banks in each district. Although the resources of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston are smaller than those of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and San Francisco, our banking power is second only to New York and Chicago, due to the preponderance of mutual savings banks in this district, savings deposits in other districts being carried in commercial banks.

"The Chicago district, which, of course, is second to New York, has a banking power, according to the comptroller's report of last June, of $8,000,000,000 against that of Boston district of $7,083,000,000. The next in size is the California district with but $5,000,000,000 about 30 per cent smaller than that of Boston. Therefore every effort should be made to increase the power of the Boston Reserve Bank, and nothing should be allowed to sap its strength."

Francis H. Sisson, well known as a speaker in Boston, is among those favored in banking circles to be head of the American Bankers Association Mr. Sisson is vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. No American banker does more than Frank Sisson every year to give the public a clearer understanding of the intricate but important part American bankers, executives and those of the Francis H. Sisson largest calibre, play in developing prosperity in home and abroad for the benefit of capital and labor in this country.



* * *

Our growing power abroad doesn't "just happen"; our brainy bankers, capitalists, industrial leaders, etc., cause it to happen. American bankers could do well to honor Sisson. In addition to his unusual ability and his thorough grasp of public opinion, he possesses a most engaging personality, a personality which completely dissipates the notion that every Wall St. banker must wear frozen, he constantly does, and have no sense whatsoever of public or social responsibility, as R. C. Fisher points out.

We have previously mentioned that several weeks ago we called attention of Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, to the fact that comparisons of business are more fairly to be made this year against the like periods of 1928 than with those of 1929, year of over-production. As a result of this, Dr. Klein ordered federal comparisons hereafter to be made against both 1929 and 1928.

In this connection it is interesting to find the Michigan Graphic, published by the First National Bank of Detroit, says:

"To a nation which has come to expect spectacular things from the net business indices, the present attitude appears much worse than it really is.

"Despite the great financial upheaval of last fall, the current business depression with its attendant unemployment, reduced buying power, and the poor foreign outlook, much attention is devoted to the fact that automobile production is not on a par with the corresponding period of 1929.

Old Colony Trust Associates is announcing that a substantial stock interest in Everett Trust Co., but it is likely that the deal will not be closed for some time. Terms of the transaction will bring Associates' hold to 21 suburban banks. Total resources of Everett Trust Co. are nearly $9,000,000, Capital, surplus and undivided profits total more than $1,500,000 and deposits more than $7,400,000.

U. S. Wheat Exports Display Big Gain

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Grain exports last week from the United States were 2,071,000 bushels against 1,783,000 bushels the week before and 1,919,000 bushels the same week last year.

Commerce Department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the previous week: Wheat, 1,828,000 bushels against 1,-619,000 bushels; corn, 6,000 against none; corn, 49,000 bushels against 74,000 bushels; barley 190,000 bushels against 50,000

Apathy Rules in Machinery Buying

New York, July 1—A pronounced apathy marks current activity in machinery and machine-tool markets of the country, American Machinist reports. Buying interest is virtually absent and sectional reports of the past week indicate that even attractive prices and deliveries are nowadays going begging.

June volume in New England shows no change from that of May and none is expected in the near future.

PRICES MIXED IN BOSTON DEALINGS

Prices were mixed in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today, with some good gains appearing for the active leaders. Quincy Mining advanced over a point. United Fruit gained over a point in view of the favorable report issued today.

Point or more gains were shown by Sullivan Machine, New Haven, Penn R. R., First National Stores, Eastern Gas & Fuel and Boston & Albany. Atchison soared over 6 points, General Capital, Stone, Webster and Torrington each sold a point higher.

Losses of a point or more were shown by the following issues: General Electric, American Telephone and Gas Company, Massachusetts Bay Railway preferred B. Cities Service moved in a narrow range.

Mains Gas Companies have declared a regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock of $1.50 per share, and on the common stock of 50c per share, both dividends payable July 15, 1930, to stockholders of record July 1, 1930.

Jackson & Curtis, members of the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, announce the opening this day of an uptown office in the Graybar building, 420 Lexington ave., under the management of John L. Handy. This office is the first branch office they have established in New York. The main office is in Boston, with other offices of the firm are in Boston, Chicago, Springfield, Providence, Worcester, Lynn and Lawrence.

Charles A. Hardy has been appointed purchasing agent of American Woolen Co., succeeding Granville K. Cutler, resigned. C. A. Hardy has been connected with the company for nearly 25 years as purchasing agent of the Wood worsted mills.

J. C. Allen has resigned as vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, to accept the presidency of the Everett Trust Co. Ferdinand M. Holmes has retired as president of the Everett Trust, to devote more time to his outside affairs. He will continue as a director.

Daniel Taylor, Jr., has been elected assistant cashier of the National Shawmut Bank. Graduating from Yale College in 1921, he commenced working with the Shawmut National Bank of Boston. In 1928 he came to the Shawmut Bank, serving in the banking department.

Mr. Tyler is a member of the University Club, the Hatherly Country Club and Crossup Pishon Post of the American Legion.

A. W. Hill of the banking department has been appointed assistant cashier of the Atlantic National Bank. He is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology and the possessor of the degree of electrical engineer. Prior to his entrance into the Shawmut Bank Mr. Hill was connected with the George L. Ohrstrom & Co., note brokers, and then with the Bank of America as their assistant representative. He came to the National Shawmut Bank in 1928.

BOSTON BANK STOCKS

N. E. Y. Charlestown—E. encloses a list of my holdings. Would it be all right to add 100 shares of National Shaw?

Ans.—The purchase you propose is approved.

ANTS STOCK

C. B., Wales st.—I am a reader of your paper and have saved $4000 with which I want to buy dependable stocks. Please give suggestions.

Ans.—For a trifle under $2800 you can get ten shares each Bush Terminal debenture, Cities Service preferred and fifteen Allis-Chalmers. This annual income of $715 is 6.3 per cent. With over $1200 left in the savings bank you will have a fair start for an additional surplus.

GIVE FACTS

B. F. Brookline—Would you consider Gold Dust a good purchase at current levels?

Ans.—With facts before us about your circumstances we could render a proper service. At recent levels Gold Dust yields 4½ per cent from the $2.50 dividend. In 1929 earnings were $4.66 a share contrasted with $7.51 in 1928 and $6.02 in 1927 on a smaller capitalization. The company is a large manufacturer of economical food products and is retiring a large portion of its funded debt out of surplus.

SPECULATIVE STOCK

Miss J. C., Salem—I own 45 shares Baldwin Locomotive at higher levels. What do you think of the outlook?

Ans.—If your main fluctuations, you could not guess future prices for you. Despite somewhat irregular earnings Baldwin Locomotive paid dividends of $7 a share annually on the old common stock from second half of 1919. The annual rate on the new stock, issued in four-for-one split, October, 1929, is $1.75 a share. Earnings in 1929 were below that figure. New business for the first five months of current year is a little over half that of similar period in 1929, while unfilled orders June 1 were $18,000,000 compared with $15,000,000 June 1, 1929. The stock is speculative.

FORBES NAMES STEP TO CURE OIL WASTE

By B. C. FORBES

New York, July 1—Curtailment of oil over-production will not restore the industry's health if refining and marketing are allowed to run wild.

After many weary and sometimes disconcerting months of painstaking efforts by far-seeing leaders, the majority of oil producers have been brought round to reason. This phase of the oil problem is within sight of solution.

B. C. Forbes

But will restraint by producers be nullified by recklessness on the part of refiners and distributors?

I have induced President Kenneth L. Kingsbury of the Standard Oil Co. of California, one of the half-dozen most influential oil giants in America, to lay the whole oil situation clearly before readers of this column.

* * *

Without further ado, let Mr. Kingsbury speak:

"All the California producing fields are under a pro ratio agreement ensuring for a production of 336,000 barrels a day.

"This is on a basis of a potential production of over a million barrels a day.

"This curtailment in production has been accomplished through pinching back flowing wells and shutting in other wells entirely. Our own company, as illustrative besides cutting back its flowing wells, has shut in completely 1,500 producing wells in California out of a total of its 3300 producing wells.

* * *

"It is somewhat unfortunate, I think, that the industry seems to feel that when production of crude oil has been curtailed to a point to bring it in balance with the demand, the conservation problem has been solved. This might be true were it not for the fact that there are nearly 30,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil and petroleum products in storage in the United States.

"From little attention, I think, has been given to the next and equally important step in conservation: that is, orderly and scheduled refining and marketing.

"Only through the accomplishment of conservation in this end of the business can the objective be successfully attained.

"If there be any taking advantage of his oil in storage, overproduces and forces production on the market which unsettle prices, bring about an unstable and disorderly price structure, and tends to destroy the results which have been accomplished in the producing end of the business, for the reason that the producer, as a reward for his willingness to curtail his production, is entitled to a fair and stabilized price for his crude oil, whereas unsettled prices for the finished product naturally tend to unsettle prices for crude oil.

"It is my belief that we cannot maintain a voluntary and failed production in balance with consumption on cut prices for crude oil. In this connection you will recall the bitter complaint made to the President by midcontinent producers last spring when they were met with a reduced price for crude oil at the very time that they were accepting the full curtailment program.

* * *

"The Federal Oil Conservation Board pointed the way in its second step in conservation, that is, orderly and stable refining and marketing, when it suggested a few months ago to the industry that refiners should close down on Sundays, or, in effect, run one-seventh less crude oil each week. Many refiners immediately complied with this suggestion, but many others did not, so it is not possible to determine definitely just what results were accomplished.

"The relation of conservation to stabilizing prices for finished products were referred to by the Federal Oil Conservation Board in its report to the President on September 1, 1926, when the board pointed out the desirability of less duplication of marketing facilities, which, as the board said, 'at times even involve an expense equal to cost of production and refining.'"

* * *

Big Orders for Pipe Line Given

Chicago, July 1—During June A. O. Smith Corp. received orders for large diameter pipe, amounting to 772 miles or approximately 100,000 tons, all for current shipment. Part of this tonnage is for the Missouri Valley, Southern Natural Gas and United Gas.

In Step With Modernism

AFTER SERVING BOSTON for 130 years, the jewelry firm of Shreve, Crump and Low is doing business in a new modernistic store at Boylston and Arlington sts. A corner of the silverware department is shown, Benjamin D. Shreve is manager of the firm. (Staff photos.)

OLD JEWELERS' NEW STORE

Shreve, Crump & Low Co., a Boston jewelry concern that traces its establishment back 130 years, has opened a new store at the corner of Boylston and Arlington sts.

Inside and out, the new store exemplifies modernism. The outer structure is of Indiana limestone. The front is further enhanced by window grills, frames and awning covers, executed in gold bronze. Attractive windows complete the outer ensemble.

The spacious and imposing interior strikes the modern note that is seen in the smartest French shops of Paris. The lighting is clear white without direct rays.

The show cases carry out the theme of contemporary design, many of the lower panels being designed with inlays of Honduras mahogany, East India rosewood, Japanese ash and American holly.

On the main floor are grouped the diamond, jewelry, watch, clock, leather goods, stationery, china and silverware departments. Downstairs are found the antique furniture and lamp galleries.

The firm of Shreve, Crump & Low was founded in 1800 at 51 Marlborough st., which would now be Washington st., at State. Through a period of years, several changes of location were made until on July 1, 1891, the firm was established at Tremont and West sts. The move to this new structure, therefore occurs just 39 years from that date.

The present management is comprised of Benjamin D. Shreve, general manager; Arthur H. Horne, treasurer; William A. Lee, manager of silver department; A. Warren Armitage, manager of the china department, and Roger D. Smith, vice president.

Stepdaughters of War

ever-growing cemetery shadowed by the Witch's Hand. It is a day for life, not death. A day for striding the Sussex Downs with a joyful barking dog. A day to return home, happily tired at sunset to a leaping fire of friendly logs.

But not a day to be made a number in a row of muddy earth mounds in a bare tract of hastily walled-off ground. When I am buried I would wish to be in a gray day of desperately and wind and planting rain, a day when to leave this earth behind would be a gladsome thing—and this I think I could not do willingly on a brisk day of windy winter sunshine.

The padre meets us at the cemetery entrance. I clamber down. I examine my tyres anxiously. I have come a little too far in. No joke sticking in the mud near the cemetery gate. Once before——

The orderlies advise me to risk it. R. E. Foley follows in his device. I stand to attention as the coffins are carried inside. Near the grave the bearers halt and sling. They are tired and bored. The five graves are side by side in the center of a row. The mud is awful. Twice I go over my ankles as I walk down the avenue of black crosses.

A coffin is placed near each yawning cavity. The padre clears his throat, an orderly deftly untie each Union Jack and adds it to the neat little heap. Creak, creak, the coffins are lowered while we stand to attention. A hitch occurs and the orderlies whisper among themselves.

The padre begins the service. I glance at the khaki-clad men. Their mouths are tightly set—grim, determined mouths for mere boys of 18 or 19. Hardlipped, unsensing, they stare upwards at the Witch's Hand. I shiver. It is not my imagination, the snow has bent it over, reaches down avilly, the claws snatching at us as we stand defenceless, as though to squeeze the youth from us until we are dry and lifeless.

The padre drones on—I do not hear the words. It last for minutes. He makes a gesture. We bow our heads. Under my lashes I take a last peep at the five dead boys and sigh. The five dead will sleep soundly enough in their muddy beds tonight.

When I look up my head a few seconds later the buglers have their bugles in readiness to their lips. The latter sounds imperceptibly to the other. The Last Post fills the valley, the notes are caught by the hills and flung back.

Once more the curtain rings down on the drama that can already be seen in one of the longest runs on record. When will the final performances be announced?

The padre stands lost in a reverie, tapping his finger against the book he carries. Seconds pass. One of the buglers blows down the mouthpiece of his instrument to dislodge something, the other fidgets uneasily on one leg. At last an orderly gives a loud significant cough. This rouses the padre. He starts and moves away. His shoulders are drooping. He looks very weary. We follow him. Photos are taken barely five minutes from the lowering of the coffins.

The orderlies clamber to my wheels. They have not sunk further into the morass as I had feared. In fact, the padre is lift but he points without speech to another ambulance slowly crawling down the hill. His mouth is set in lines of infinite weariness as we watch.

This is an imposing funeral compared with mine. Only a few six officers and several nurses. A dead V. A. D., I remember suddenly. A gust of wind shakes the Witch's Hand until the fingers tremble with horrible eagerness. I turn my back quickly and start the engine. There is something human and reassuringly earthy in its vibration.

The orderlies throw the Union Jack aboard. One of them clambers up beside me and lights a cigarette, directly we pass the incoming procession.

He tells me he wants his tea—it was fish for dinner and he never could stand fish. From inside comes the noise of the others chatting and laughing. We dash up the hill as fast as the engine will.

On the way we pass two more ambulances descending into the valley.

"My Gawd, we're winning the war," remarks the man sarcastically.

I drop my passengers at the turning leading to Number Thirteen Casualty Clearing. They go down the lane marching and whistling "Tipperary." They will be in good time for tea. I discover I want my own badly.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Some Are Worth Saving

Massachusetts to Classify Its Prisoners

Thanks to the sensible and kindly social outlook of Commissioner A. Warren Stearns, the State of Massachusetts soon is to have the most complete system of classification of prisoners yet devised by any commonwealth in this country.

The prisoners committed to the Norfolk Prison Camp, despite the fact that it is a penitentiary, are not to be regarded solely as renegades and social outcasts, sent there for subjection to savage punishments amid aboriginal conditions which could but develop latent criminal impulses.

They are to be classified; that is, they are to be separated into groups according to the character of their offenses and according to the disposition they manifest to repent of their violations and to return to society as peaceful, productive, law-abiding citizens.

We can all be thankful that this system is not entirely new to Massachusetts; that we have not in the past yielded to the self-righteous wave of morality which brands misdemeanants as felons and sends them in a barbaric spirit to criminal factories, called jails and penitentiaries, which forever destroy all hope of their social redemption.

That justice is to be tempered with mercy by the wider application of this selective system gives to us an added source of satisfaction. Man-power is the wealth of a State. When we by our own acts as a State make it callous, revengeful and vindictive we lose its moral and material strength. We exhibit that we are utterly without merit to any claim that we have absorbed the humane example of Him who ministered to the delinquents 1930 years ago.

Superintendent Gill of Norfolk has stated the simple theory that if a man is treated as a fellow-being he will not ordinarily abuse the confidence that is reposed in him. And, again:

"A man is punished enough when he is sent to prison. There is no sense in adding to his burden by a system of severe reprisals to kill all the good that is in him."

We make stone walls a prison and iron bars a cage when by persecution we eliminate hope from those who are confined.

Our Eminent Surgeons

Might Demonstrate American Methods

A distinguished group of American surgeons has sailed from Boston to demonstrate the advanced American methods of surgery to the eminent medical scholars of Europe.

We can derive much local pride from the fact that this small but notable group of pilgrims which represents the surgical skill of America is in charge of a Boston surgeon, Dr. Charles G. Mixter, and that it includes two other members of our medical fraternity, Drs. E. P. Richardson and Fred B. Lund.

Our medical science was the baby among the Nations. Yet it has taught Americans how to live longer on the average than any other people of recorded history.

It has wiped out the community plagues and diseases; in sanitation and preventive medicine it has attained results which are the marvel of the world.

We owe much to our physicians and surgeons and they owe much to us. America placed no restrictive prohibitions of sorcery around them, but gave them the freest play to their talents.

Their experimentations were confined not to the gouts and delicate maladies of kings, but to the afflictions which beset wide areas of the common people and provided the widest latitude for medical practices and expansions.

Before our Tercentenary is closed we should like to see our medical men exhibit by pageant to us how the early democracy of New England has enabled their profession to rise to that distinction which now commands the scholarly interest of the old world.

Police Promotions

Way Now Open for Good Men

Commissioner Hultman and the Civil Service Commission have done more in one day to exalt the Boston Police Department than their predecessors had accomplished in years.

By the stroke of their pens they have made it possible for the patrolman to win his chevrons and for the Sergeant and Lieutenants to rise from their ranks without the accumulation of barnacles and the devastating dry rot which attend the delay of deserved promotions in the public service.

Early advancement is opened to them by the display of the ordinary talents expected of policemen.

In the place of the sluggishness and indifference which trickled down to them in the past, they now have abundant motive to substitute alertness, enthusiasm and rugged honesty in the performance of their duties.

We can sit back now and observe whether the rank and file of this department are equipped with diligence and worthy ambition. The shackles have been lifted.

It is up to them.

Col. Herbert's Big Job

He's Given Chicago Clean-up

Colonel John F. J. Herbert of Worcester has been assigned to a post of striking importance in the prohibition unit. He is entrusted with the awesome duty of enforcing the law in Chicago. This assignment should dismiss forever the accusations which were made against him by the loose-tongued and loud-mouthed. His Bay State colleagues who saw him perform valorous service in France were the first to rise to his defense, and a better tribute no man could expect.

3 Women Members

Mayor Adds Them to Welfare Board

Mayor Curley now has appointed three women to be members of the Board of Overseers of Public Welfare. In no other branch of city government could the tender sympathies and kindly ministrations of woman be more usefully employed. He has given them this chance. The three, Miss Sophie Friedman of Back Bay, Mrs. Margaret Gookin of Roxbury, and Mrs. Thomas McMahon of Brighton, should see to it that his confidence in them is justified.

McINTYRE ABROAD

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, JULY 1—After ordering a breakfast of oeufs, brioche et cafe au lait over the telephone in my well known French and receiving a strip of salt mackerel and a boiled potato, I lit a shuck for the Cafe de la Paix. That's the place for a visiting yap anyway.

If you converse in French to a waiter there he sends for an interpreter. It is axiomatic that if you sit long enough in front of the Cafe de la Paix you will see someone from home. That is probably true of any place in the world—if you sit long enough.

However, to my mind, a wicker chair on the Boulevard des Capucines side of this famous restaurant is the most interesting observation point on the globe. The world drifts amiably and leisurely by. There is romance in the stately trees, spreading their foliage in a leafy arcade. And the birds are well mannered.

• • •

Down the middle of the wide boulevard is the caravan of red wheeled fiacres with blowzy drivers nodding under patent leather plug hats. The gaudy octagonal sign posts shriek of Paris—the Paris of Kub, Potages Maggi, the Fratellinis, Chocolat Menier, Au Bon Marche and La Grand Maison This and Dernieres Nouvelles That.

Marie, the famous one-legged cocotte, still darts in and out the crowds with her white enameled crutch with her beckoning smile. An ebony-black Moroccan in white turban and robe, the French papa with spade shaped beard and black gloves, the monocled Senegalese with Oxonian accent—all parade.

• • •

Too, the American newsboys with their tinge of Bowery patois, the Latin Quarter students in wide black hats, the provincials with Joe Weber derbies, timid school marms sipping their first cocktail guiltily, rachitic map sellers, whispering peep show guides, watery eyed old men strapped to huge portable signs, etc.

The Cafe de la Paix is operated by the management of the Grand Hotel which occupies the corner. It is the best paying venture of the sort in the world. There are 318 sidewalk tables on its two sides. Its terrasse accommodates 1200 people and in balmy weather does capacity business.

• • •

The Cafe de la Paix does not attract tourists only. In its small dining salons will be found some of the famous gourmets of France. There are many Parisians who make a custom of idling at a sidewalk table there for an hour or so every week. It is their relaxation—like going to the opera or theater. The French love to gawk.

Official dinner hour in French cafes is 9 o'clock. Not many natives attend the theater and cafes are always empty by 10:30 o'clock. There are few after theater supper places for dancing save in the district between Place Blanche and the Place Pigalle in Montmarte. Down town Paris is as quet as Gallipolis, O., after 10 o'clock at night. The caped gendarme with his white club and complete air of detachment is about the only figure seen after that hour.

• • •

Dancing here as in America has suffered a decline in popularity. The gigolo and professional dancers are in almost complete retirement. People who used to haunt dance places now idle at the brasseries where the favorite tipple is beer and where single plates of meats or vegetables are served.

• • •

To my notion the most charming square in Paris is the portlced Place des Vosges. We walked there this evening in the gathering twilight. At No. 6 is where Victor Hugo lived and wrote—now converted into a museum for his relics. Dumas spent much time there as did Balzac, de Musset and Charles Dickens. Madam de Sevigne lived here for 20 years and Henry II was killed in Place des Vosges sky-larking with a chief of staff. My dog added a touch of history by bristling up to a French poodle and receiving a deserving nip on the haunch—the little smart aleck.

• • •

There is a brooding melancholy about these coldly blue ancient Paris squares at night. The wayfarer feels as though he might be disturbing the ghosts of the gallant gentlemen and bepowdered ladies of long ago. Instinctively the step is lighter and the voice drops to a whisper.

• • •

I seem to be the only American who did not come to Europe this year to attend a conference. But I'm on a private mission. It is to learn why France insists on sewing those red threads in every piece of laundry. And after that is cleared up I want to know why they separate telephone numbers with dashes in print, par exampla, 14—40.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

FIRST, AS a very simple and illuminating instance of grafting plants, let us consider the garden flower called Mirabilis jalapa, or "Four O'Clock." This exists in numerous varieties, two of which are distinguished by the white and red color of their flowers.

Suppose that we cross a red-flowered plant with one of a white-flowered strain. All the offspring will have pink flowers. If now we inbreed this first hybrid generation, fertilizing them with each other's pollen or their own, we get a second generation showing three distinct types.

H. G. Wells

There are red-flowered plants precisely like those of the original red strain, white-flowered plants like those of the pure white strain, and pink-flowered plants, like the first hybrid generation resulting from the cross.

If the experiments are carried a generation further another striking fact reveals itself.

If the reds are self-fertilized or pollinated by other reds all of the progeny will also be red; thus these plants, although only in the second generation from a cross, yet breed true for the character that was crossed.

This fundamental fact was in total disagreement with the prevalent view of animal and plant breeders in the last century, that crossing so contaminates the "blood" or constitution of both strains used in a cross that it is impossible to obtain purity of breed again, at least without many generations of rigorous selection.

The whites of this second generation, when tested, prove to be as pure for flower-color as the reds. But the pink plants all behave like their parents of the first hybrid generation; they do not breed true, but throw reds and pinks and whites.

And so on for as many generations as we like to raise. Reds and whites will always breed true, while pinks will throw reds and whites as well as pinks. A pink that breeds true is an impossibility.

In order to explain facts like these, Mendel assumed that somewhere in the plant's hereditary constitution there were units busy with the control of this or that character.

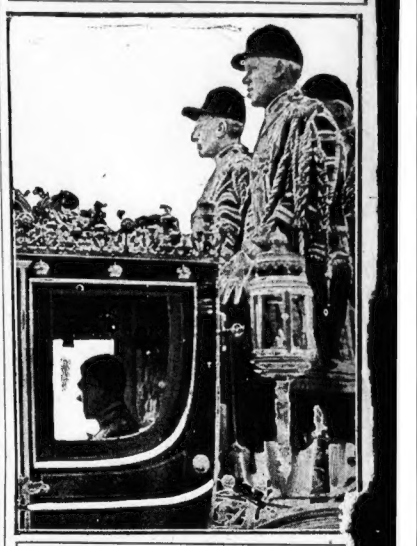
The Prince Takes a Ride

And the Common People Love His Grandeur



THE PRINCE OF WALES RIDES TO HOLD A LEVEE.

This interesting picture of a democratic prince on his way to the palace in a most gorgeous coach shows the importance of impressing the voter.

The young Prince of Wales wears simples clothes, travels about like any other Britisher.

But he finds on state occasions that it is wise to impress the British people, particularly those at the bottom of the social pile, with the grandeur of the royal family.

In this picture you see part of the royal state carriage, and through the rear window the young Prince on his way to Buckingham Palace to hold a levee or reception in place of his father. The King was not well enough on that day.

You notice above the coach window highly ornamental works covered with gold. And you see standing on a platform above the wheels back of the Prince three servants in gorgeous liveries, wearing the royal colors brilliantly decorated with gold braid.

There is nothing in the world for them to do as they stand up there. They are not even armed, could not protect the Prince.

But they add to the display and increase the pleasure of the crowd along the sidewalks.

Ahead of the Prince are six horses, men riding on their backs, each horse carefully controlled to make sure that it will not run away.

They are big, rather heavy, cream-colored horses usually. They also impress the crowd.

The Prince would prefer to go to Buckingham Palace in an ordinary automobile or taxi, to save time, and get his work done as rapidly as possible.

But that would not suit the millions of Britishers that uphold and worship the royal family.

With emperors, as with the doormen of the moving pictures, it is necessary to be impressive.

Capital Silhouettes

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

The Slam Book

REMEMBER THE autograph albums we had when we were youngsters, stranger? And how Lucy wrote—"Roses are red, violets are blue, pinks are sweet and so are you"—and Alfred 'n' Miriam 'n' Stella followed with similar sugary sentiments? Well, the youngsters of today have like contraptions, but if you look for sugar in them, you'll look in vain. "Slam Books" that's what they call these modern school day souvenirs and they are just that. Over his autograph each frank young friend writes exactly what he thinks of the owner of the book. And he usually thinks PLENTY!

Elsie Robinson

Alice is informed that she's "too boy struck," or "too affected." Bill learns that he is "a flat tire"—"a pikser"—"stuck on himself." If compliments are in order, they are also recorded, but never effusively.

Taken as a whole, the Slam Book give a fairly accurate report of its owner's standing in his or her community.

Like it? They have to like it! Heaven help the youngster who yelps about the truth after he has asked for it! Forthwith he will be boobed, razzed and ruthlessly branded as a bum sport by all his friends.

There's a sign of the times for you. Think of the tears and pouts and bleeding hearts if anyone had written slams in those gilt-edged brochures of our youth! Ours was a sentimental era. Truth was the last thing we wanted.

And this applied to every department of our lives. We weren't supposed to discuss unpleasant things. We weren't even supposed to know unpleasant things about ourselves. Psychology, that snoopy science, had not as yet yanked the lid off our libido. The facts of life were discreetly covered with pink cotton wadding.

Theoretically, that should have filled life with sweetness and light. But actually it didn't. It was a dingy, sorrowful, covered-plumbing period, that Victorian era.

Remember how you suffered as a youngster from your secret confusions and resentment. You didn't understand yourself and no one could or would give you a hand. Your whole life might have been different if somebody had.

Psychology, industry—and the ghastly exposure of the late war—have changed all that. We have learned the price of sentimentality. The youngsters of today are facing life and themselves as IS. If they don't know what it's all about it won't be their friends' fault.

The Slam Book and all it implies is a great thing for the human race. It will do for our minds what civilization has done for our bodies.

Civilization brought our bodies down from trees and out of caves and made them walk like men. The Slam Book will bring young minds out of caves and teach them to stand erect and face the sun of reality.
